DuPont hearing draws mixed comments

No timeline yet for DEQ's decision on air emissions

Opponents to DuPont DeLisle's request for a retroactive air emissions permit and another permit requesting the expansion of production by 16 percent, had to wait a while to have their say at a public hearing Thursday night.

Although DEQ representatives made a special announcement to assure attendees that comments would be taken in no special order, pro or con, the first 18 or so speakers all spoke out in favor of allowing the permits, with speakers on the opposition side all following later in

In the first unveiling of a new state-of-the-art science and visitor center, director of Stennis Space Center retired Admiral Tom Donaldson took guests on a virtual, three dimensional journey from outer space to the actual project site along Interstate 10.

The $35 million, 72,000 square foot facility named Infinity at NASA Space Center, is scheduled to open early in 2007 with site preparation scheduled to begin this summer with a formal groundbreaking in 2005. Infinity will be the only one of its kind.

Supervisors voted unanimously to add a new name to the monument outside the Hancock County Courthouse, that honors Mississippi State Troopers who gave their lives in the line of duty. The name does not mark a new tragedy for troopers, but rather a historical one, the death of Trooper Cyril J. Reichert in 1947.

In January of 1947, George A. Davis, aka Robert Davis, stole a car in Texas, drove across two states to Mississippi picking up a hitchhiker along the way. Davis took the hitchhiker into the woods in Hancock County and shot him, robbed him and left him for dead, but the man managed to make his way out to Hwy. 90.

A motorist picked him up and headed to the nearest hospital, Charity, in New Orleans. In Pearlington Trooper Reichert was on duty and offered to escort the two. Oddly enough, they encountered Davis along the road and forced him to pull over.

Trooper Cyril J. Reichert died in January 1947 after being shot by an assailant.

Smithsonian to exhibit 'Labat: A Creole Legacy'

A significant slice of Bay St. Louis history will soon be featured in the Smithsonian Institution. "Labat: A Creole Legacy" by local artist Lori Gordon has been awarded a home in the museum's permanent collection.

Gordon's work is a fabric collage that measures 8'x10'. It tells the story, through images and text, of the life of Celestine Labat. Ms. Labat was born in Bay St. Louis in 1898, and died in the same house in which she was born last year at the age of 104. She was the member of a large Creole family who first settled in the community in the mid 1800s.

Gordon befriended Ms. Labat during the last two years of the woman's life. "I met Miss Celestine at a luncheon given in her honor," Gordon relates. "I was immediately captivated by her presence, and knew I had to try and paint a portrait of her." Gordon arranged a meeting with Labat, and the friendship was born.

As they visited, Ms. Labat began telling stories of her childhood. "I was mesmerized by her tales," Gordon remembers. "Her life experiences were so very different from anything I had ever experienced. It was not only the age difference; our social and cultural worlds were miles apart."

As Gordon began visiting Ms. Labat on a regular basis, she decided that the stories she was hearing needed to be preserved. "I didn't start out doing an oral history," Gordon explains. "I didn't know that I would ever do anything with the stories, I just knew that they needed to be captured." With Ms. Labat's consent, Gordon began bringing an audio cassette player with her.

Over the next eighteen months, Gordon taped her visits. At some point, Ms. Labat began pulling out her albums of family photographs. As Gordon began putting faces to the names, the idea for the fabric collage was born. "I had seen similar 'quilts', and I thought it was a perfect way to capture Miss Celestine's stories," Gordon says. "I began scanning her photos into my computer, and after manipulating them with an arts program, I printed them out on a special paper, and then transferred the images to cloth."

Gordon hand hemmed each individual image and then hand sewed them to pieces of backing cloth. This was done mostly by lamp-light. At the time Gordon was living in a tent in the Black Hills of South Dakota, where she and her husband had gone to build a cabin over the summer. "It was pretty primitive," Gordon laughs. "We didn't have running water or electrical lines up on that mountain. I spent my evenings listening to the coyotes howling, and sewing up those little pieces of Miss Celestine's life."

Gordon selected some of Ms. Labat's stories, and transferred the text to cloth as well. She then began adhering the different sections to a canvas support. After all the pieces were in place, she painted on a border. "I chose to use a traditional African mudcloth design to represent both her African and Choctaw heritage," she relates. "Both cultures favored the use of strong geometrical designs in their art."

While Gordon was working to finish the project, Ms.

Labat began feeling poorly. The colon cancer she had been living with for years worsened, and it became apparent that the centenarian would not survive this final battle. Gordon recalls that she worked feverishly to complete the project. She just made it. Only days before Ms. Labat's death, friends helped Gordon bring the collage into Ms. Labat's bedroom, where they stood on chairs to hold it up for the woman to view.

After Ms. Labat's death, Gordon began thinking about a home for the collage. "Miss Celestine was so proud of her family and so pleased with the collage," she relates. "I had promised her that I would do my best to see it end up in a public place, so that her story could be told." Gordon began sending out information about the project, and soon heard from a representative of the Smithsonian Institution.

"I was contacted by the Anacostia Museum and Center for African American History and Culture, which is one of the museums that make up the Smithsonian," the artist says. "I thought that they would be the perfect venue for the project." Last week, the final arrangements were made. Portia James, curator for the museum, said that "I am very excited about the acquisition of this art work that combines family history, community history, and the African American craft tradition of quilting. It speaks directly to the museum's mission of cultural heritage education and preservation." "Miss Celestine would be thrilled to know that her story was going to be told in our national museum," Gordon says, "and I'm thrilled to be able to have had a part in the project. I am also very pleased that Bay St. Louis will be represented in the Smithsonian. More than anything though, I feel so very lucky to have known Celestine Labat."

Gordon says that the hundreds of hours and many months of effort she has invested in the project can be encapsulated in a few words. She explains that the piece is "a love letter to a friend."

Lumberyard to host send-off party

The Lumberyard Art Center in Bay St. Louis will be hosting a send-off party for "Labat: A Creole Legacy", on Friday, May 14 at 5:30 pm. The 8'x10' fabric collage that chronicles the life and times of Celestine Labat will soon be traveling to its new home in the Smithsonian Institution's Anacostia Museum and Center for African American History and Culture.

Lori Gordon, creator of the collage, will be present to answer questions about the piece. She says that this may be the last chance for people to see it, as she expects it to be shipped to Washington, D.C. later this month. She will also be exhibiting framed prints of images from the collage, along with copies of the stories from the piece.

The event is open to the public. Everyone is asked to bring their own drink and a dish to share. The Lumberyard Art Center is located at 299 S. Second Street in Bay St. Louis. For more information, please call Lori Gordon at 466-9253 or 467-7279, or Vicki Niolet at 467-8318.

Public hearings for 2 property cleanups postponed in Waveland

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
STAFF WRITER

Plans for public hearings on two property cleanups located on Herlihy and Singleton Streets has been postponed temporarily until aldermen can contact property owners to make sure they have been properly noticed. Confusion over just who pays the taxes for the Singleton St. property prompted Ward 4 Alderman Santo Saucier to ask that he be given the chance to contact the property owner before any formal action is taken. Ward 3 Alderman Brian Schmitt asked for additional time to contact the other property owner.

In other business:

- A representative from Sonic of Waveland told aldermen that the new restaurant on Hwy. 90 would be ready to serve food on May 22.

- The Sons of the American Legion Children's Fishing Rodeo will be held on June 12 at the Garfield Ladner Pier.

- Aldermen approved a bid from W.A. Construction

Co. Inc. in the amount of $60,024 for an overlay project on Central Ave. from Nicholson to Coleman Avenues.

- Aldermen approved the removal of a stop sign at Margie St. Schmitt asked that police officers patrol the area and post an additional speed limit sign on the road. He said the sign had served to reduce the speed of the traffic flow on the road.

- All aldermen were in attendance.

Suspect in three burglaries arrested

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
PUBLISHER EMERITUS

The Waveland Police Department has arrested a suspect in three commercial business burglaries in that city, according to Police Chief Jimmy Varnell.

Varnell said, "On Friday, Investigators of Waveland

Police Department arrested James Thomas Blount, Jr., 17, of Bay St. Louis for three alleged burglaries of a commercial business."

Varnell listed the businesses burglarized were Charles and Ramona's, once on March 14 and a second time on April 23; and the WaveMart on May 1, both businesses located on Coleman Avenue.

Blount is charged with three counts of burglary of a commercial business and is being housed in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility in lieu of a $3,000 bond, Varnell added.

Residents are urged to report any suspicious person(s) or activity in their area. "We rely on the public for their help, just call the Waveland Police Department at 228-467-3669," Varnell requested.

Petal man charged with possession

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

A Petal man was arrested for possession of marijuana, carrying a concealed weapon and a traffic violation, according to Pass

Christian K-9 Sgt. Josh McConnell.

"On Thursday evening, May 6, Jimmy L. Kennedy was stopped for a traffic violation. Outside his vehicle during a pat down, a pistol was found in his right front pocket by officers, in addition to $3,468 on his person," McConnell's release said.

McConnell continued, "In a search of his vehicle, one-half an ounce of marijuana was discovered. Also the weapon had its serial numbers removed."

"Kennedy was charged with a traffic violation, possession of marijuana in his vehicle and carrying a concealed weapon. Because of the serial numbers being removed from the weapon, ATF has been notified," McConnell's report said.

May is Better Hearing and Speech Month

Since 1927, May has been designated Better Hearing and Speech Month, a time to raise public awareness of speech and language disorders that affect 14 million Americans.

Speech and language disorders take many forms. Babies can be born with these disorders. Accidental injury or illness can cause them at any age. Speech and language disorders can limit academic achievement, social adjustment, and career advancement.

"Fortunately, most people with speech and language problems can be helped." "Even if the problem cannot be eliminated, we can teach people with speech and language problems strategies to help them cope. People may not fully regain their capacity to speak and understand, but a speech-language pathologist can help them live more independently."

Speech-language pathologists are the professionals who treat all types of speech, language, and related disorders. They hold at least a master's degree and are certified by the American Speech-

Language-Hearing Association. In Mississippi, they also are licensed by the state. Speech-language pathologists work in schools, private practice, hospitals, clinics, and other health and education settings.

Get ready for Relay for Life

About the area are several American Cancer Society Relay for Life posters.

Teams have been recruited to participate in the annual fund raiser for the American Cancer Society, which will be held from noon Saturday, May 22 until 6 a.m. on Sunday, May 23 at the Hancock County Walking Track in front of Hancock Medical Center.

This is part of a national fund raiser for the Cancer Society in which teams come from businesses, clubs, families, friends, hospitals, churches, schools and service organizations.

It is a fun time for all participants as well as the general public.

David Mayley of Pest Control Specialist is the general chairman of the Hancock fund raiser.

Many of the teams are now in the process of collecting sponsors, working towards a very good cause.

One of the special events for the Relay for Life event is the Luminaria display on the walking track which occurs at 9 p.m. on Saturday.

Once again, volunteers from the Senior Citizens Center have been busy painting luminary bags.

If you would like to have a special scene on a bag, give Arlene at 467-9292, or Sessie at 216-2628 a call.

Luminary bags are available for a donation of $10 each for a tax deductible donation to the American Cancer Society.

I know that Mayley is hoping this year's Relay for Life will prove to be the best fund raiser ever for the Cancer Society.

Money raised from Relay for Life supports American Cancer Society's research, education, advocacy and patient services programs.

For further information as to how you can help, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345.

Congratulations are in order for the Pearl River Community College's baseball team upon winning the first state championship ever in baseball this past week.

As man of you know, the PRCC Wildcats is coached by Bay St. Louis native Jay Artigues.

PRCC has a season record of 42-08 for the season and was ranked No. 2 in last week's NJCAA Division II Poll.

It is good to see Pearl River Community College, the junior college district for our county, take the state championship.

Jay, for sure has a lot of followers from the Bay-Waveland and Hancock County area.

Better Intelligence is vital to the cause

As a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, I know the intelligence leading up to the Iraq campaign was faulty. Our men and women in uniform deserved better intelligence about our terrorist enemies than they got.

I've suggested several ways to improve our intelligence system including: One, having more consolidation of our intelligence operations coupled with better human intelligence capability.

From the Senate

By U.S. Sen. Trent Lott

Two, making our intelligence efforts more accountable, having more experience on the Congressional intelligence committees. Three, having better communication between the intelligence community and Congress.

Consolidation: America has more than a dozen different intelligence arms.

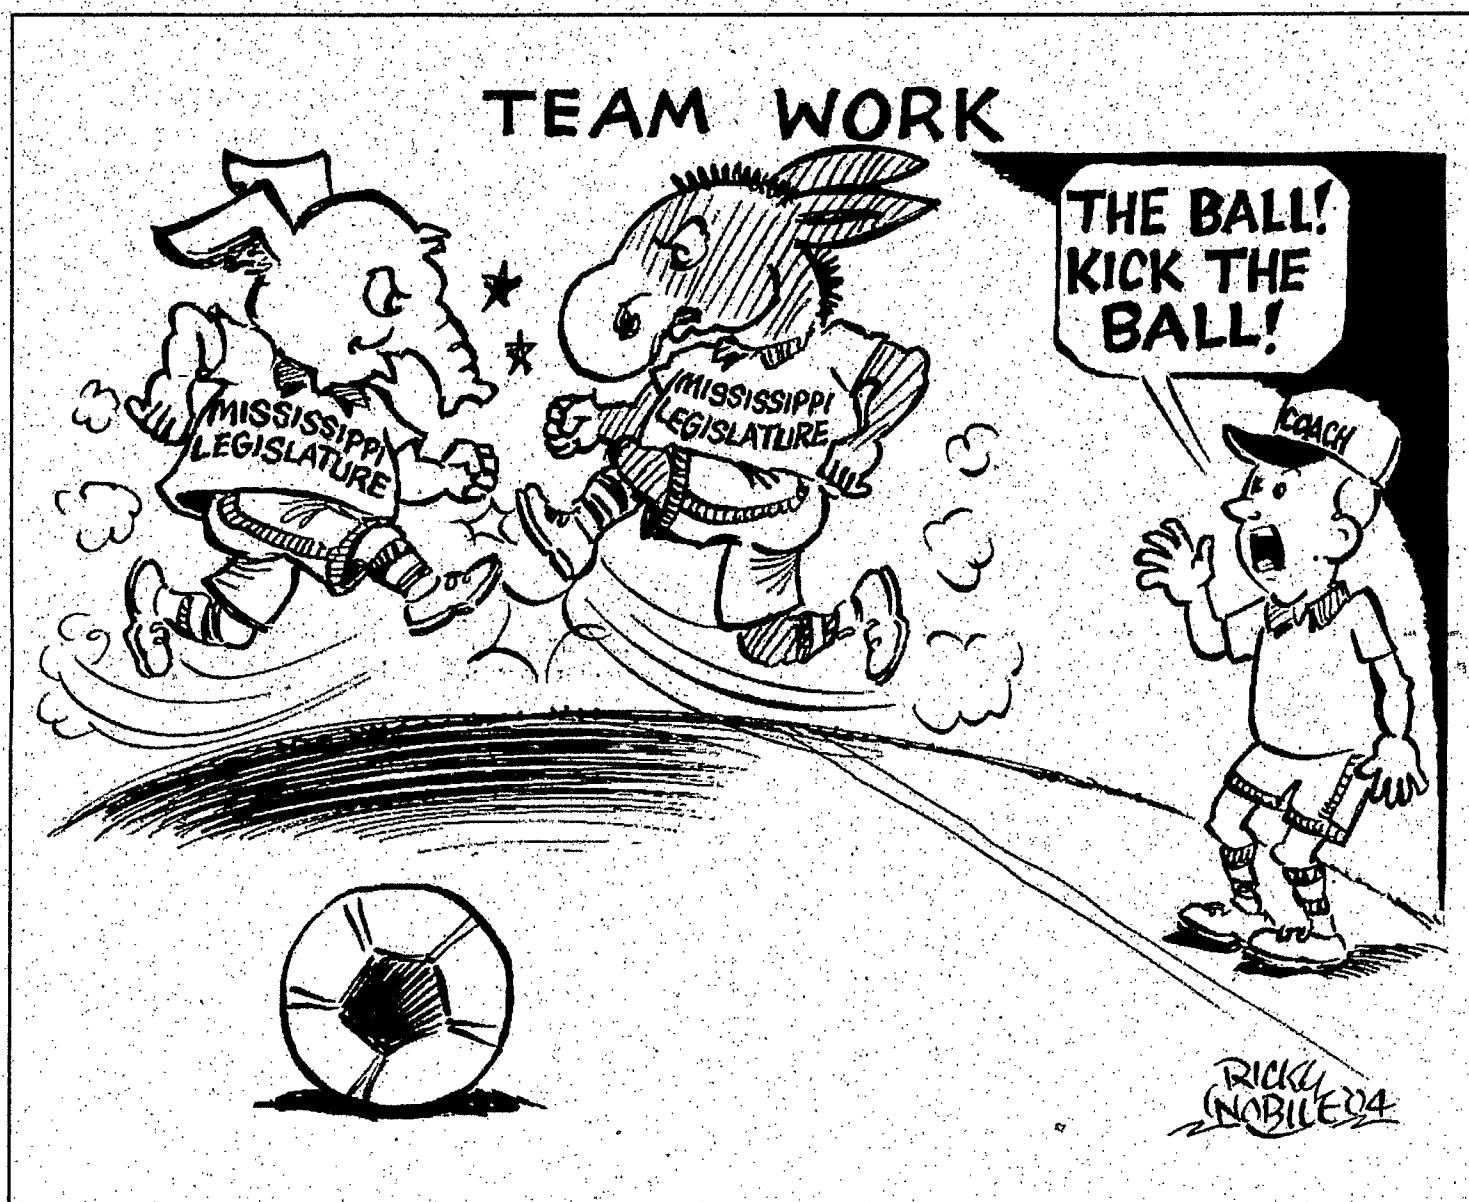

The most famous intelligence agency, the CIA, is not alone. We have the NSA, Naval intelligence, Army intelligence and more. In addition to bureaucratic inefficiencies inherent to this splintered system, our own laws have hampered America's intelligence gathering ability. There's no question the now-famous 1970s-era Church Commission sowed the seeds of recent intelligence failures, limiting the CIA's ability to employ the type of human, covert, ground-based intelligence gathering that we need. We've relied too much on satellites to spy. We need more trained agents in the field infiltrating our adversaries' home turf. Having intelligence agencies work more closely and report to one Presidentially-appointed head would vastly improve performance within our intelligence services.

Accountability: Second, the Congressional intelligence committees can use more stability and skill to provide effective Congressional oversight. As soon as a Senator serving on the Intelligence Committee masters the art of questioning enigmatic CIA personnel and understanding their answers, their term on the committee expires. We need longer terms and more experience on these important committees which fund and oversee intelligence. Without it, the CIA and

DuPont should consider people's health, not cash

Dear editor:
I am writing to convey my experiences at the MDEQ public forum on the proposed expansion of the DuPont DeLisle plant that was held Thursday evening May 6, 2004.

The meeting began at 7PM and MDEQ officials started the meeting with a reading and explanation of the permit application and asked everyone present to please limit their comments and questions to the permit application before the board.

DuPont's representative, Pat Nichols, then presented a Power Point Presentation that did not focus on the Permit Application before the MDEQ board, but focused rather on the plants employee safety record, how much DuPont was planning to expand, and how much money DuPont has given to various business and government organizations. There were no scientists from DuPont present at this meeting to answer questions or to explain to the MDEQ officials what the increased pollution requests would do to the surrounding population.

After DuPont's presentation, a variety of employees and people who have significant financial interest in the DuPont facility took to the microphone in an attempt to divert attention from the permit matters. They brought up scare tactics like jobs, taxes, and school funding. Missing was any comment or clarification of the permit request, which is what the public forum was intended to produce.

I was sickened by the Pass Christian school representatives who stood in support of a plant, who by its own admission, is the largest polluter in the entire state of Mississippi and is the largest producer of Dioxin Poisons in the entire country.

The children of Pass Christian and the entire Gulf Coast deserve better. The entire process to this point had taken 1 hour and 15 minutes. At 8:15 PM, people from the community got their chance to speak and the meeting did not adjourn until approximately 11:00 PM. That is 2 hours and 45 minutes of opposition. So, the overwhelming majority of the people present were not in support, but were rather in opposition to the proposed expansion, and this does not count the over 2,000 people who could not be present because of conflicts due to pending litigation filed against DuPont for illness and injury.

I would love to go into detail on all of the toxins that DuPont releases and explain what ill effect they produce, but that would fill a book, so I ask everyone who wants more information to visit the EPA's web site www.epa.gov and look up the toxic release data for the DuPont DeLisle plant for themselves. Lott -- intelligence other intelligence agencies can cover their bureaucratic mistakes, eluding the accountability which they have to Congress and the American people.

Cooperation: Like most of you, I'm very troubled by suspicions that our intelligence community may have played a role in abusing Iraqi prisoners, and the Senate Intelligence Committee is trying to find out if this charge is true. Certainly extracting intelligence from prisoners is not pretty, but there are internationally-recognized rules of interrogation to follow.

What we saw depicted at Abu Ghraib prison was illegal, indefensible and unacceptable. The people responsible for these perverse acts - whether they are military, intelligence officers or civilian contractors - should be punished, and this prison - where Saddam Hussein carried out so many sadistic crimes - should be leveled to show Iraqis that this type of behavior is not indicative of American values. Having said that, I must tell you that the Senate Intelligence Committee had to get initial reports about this situation, not from the intelligence community, but from the National Public Radio website. That is unacceptable. It shows we need better cooperation from the intelligence community. Congress is constitutionally part of the intelligence process, and we must be informed.

To do less than have the best intelligence service and the best intelligence gathering standards, reflects poorly on the vast majority of Americans in uniform and the civilians who serve so well every day - men and women like those in the Mississippi National Guard's 204th Air Defense Artillery Battalion, based in Newton. I visited them last week in Washington, D.C. where they've served for a year protecting the airspace above the city with their advanced Avenger weapons system. These citizen soldiers underscore the professionalism and competence that we've come to expect from America's military. The unprofessionalism at Abu Ghraib stains their noble efforts as it does all our military men and women, including those who served and are serving in Iraq, and especially the 15 Mississippians who have died in Iraq. We owe the vast majority of men and women who serve with distinction an intelligence apparatus on par with their high standards and proven accomplishments.

Letter -- DuPont

risks posed by DuPont's pollution.

There were also numerous people who stood in opposition to DuPont, who on their own initiative and on their own time, researched and brought with them scientific support of their claims of DuPont's pollution violations and the risks they pose to our community. One of the presenters even questioned why MDEQ did not fine DuPont the amounts called for by Mississippi state statute, but rather chose a much smaller and insignificant fine amount instead. The $60,000 fine that was assessed is for both omissions in DuPont's original Pollution Permit estimates and excessive pollution releases since 1989 that violated the permit limits set by MDEQ. The statutory fines that can be assessed for DuPont's violations totals anywhere between 14 and 140 million dollars. That kind of fine would not only stop DuPont from even thinking about violating their pollution limits again, but it would also go a long way to helping fix the damage they have already done to our coast. It is also worthy to note that MDEQ officials openly admit that if DuPont attempted to build the exact same plant they are operating today, in DeLisle or any other area of Mississippi, they would deny them permission to do so. This is because the amount of pollution DuPont releases is so far over what today's standards allow MDEQ could not approve the pollution permits. The other question that I have for everyone reading this letter is, why is it O.K. for DuPont to use Mississippi as its toxic waste dump? Everyone, including DuPont officials, agree that DuPont release massive amounts of air pollutants and pumps massive amounts of toxic material into deep wells everyday. During Ms. Nichols' presentation, she stated that most, if not all, of the product they produce at the DeLisle facility is exported, but the waste stays right here in Mississippi. FOREVER. How can anyone who loves our coast, and loves the people who live here, pollute the very air we breathe, fish we eat, and water we drink? That is not being a good neighbor.

Coast disaster exercise Tuesday tests local emergency preparedness

How would your local hospital react in the aftermath of an event caused by weapons of mass destruction?

We will find out Tuesday, May 11 when Lifesaver 2004 sets the stage for a simulated massive chemical attack in Gulfport.

The major Homeland Security/National Disaster Medical System (NDMS) exercise was jointly planned by the Mississippi Emergency Management Agency, the Mississippi Department of Health, Department of Defense, Department of Veteran Affairs and federal state and local agencies in nine states.

The primary objective of the exercise is to evaluate the adequacy and feasibility of federal, state and local plans and procedures to execute emergency operations in event of a weapons of mass destruction event.

First responders and others called upon to assist them will demonstrate their ability to respond, decontaminate affected "victims" and care for the simulated injuries. More than 200 volunteers will be decontaminated, evaluated and transported to medical facilities around the Coast, including Hancock Medical Center.

"This provides us with the opportunity to train our staff, and exercise our equipment and incident command system structure in response to a major emergency," said HMC facilities services director and safety officer Hank Wheeler, CHFM. "It also offers a training ground for local law enforcement, civil defense and fire departments to coordinate timely response efforts."

HMC will be testing its mass casualty decontamination unit, which earned praise from the Mississippi Hospital Association during a recent demonstration.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation will monitor the exercise and serve in an advisory or "table-top" role to advise on the full range of federal law enforcement assets that would be used in an actual WMD incident.

Hancock Medical Center participated in two previous Lifesaver exercises. In 2002, a major hurricane evacuation scenario was employed. Last year's event focused on real-world patient reception for potential casualties from Iraq.

According to a statement released by Keesler Air Force Base, "Each year the number of participants and participating agencies supporting the exercises has grown. The evolving partnerships have strengthened community relations and contributed to the development of a stronger readiness posture."

Hancock Women's Club to meet Thursday, break for summer

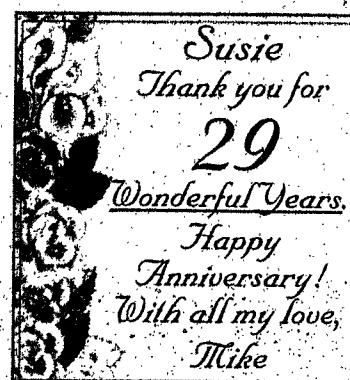

The Hancock Women's Club will meet at the Pass Christian Yacht Club at 10:30 am on Thursday, May 13, 2004, with Theresa Bourgeois presenting a program on the Hancock Medical Center Hospital Volunteer program.

Our annual Wine and Cheese raffle drawing will be held, with baskets for "win, place and show." We will also discuss the Christmas Tree project, the Getting To Know You project, and pairings will be made for the Summer Buddy program. Checks will be presented to Gaits for Success, the Food Pantry and the Waveland Animal Shelter.

Hope Haven presented the Club with a Certificate of Appreciation for the tote bags that have been donated in HWC's Bags and Books campaign.

HWC will be on summer hiatus with regular meetings resuming in September; however, Summer Fun Days will begin with a picnic on May 27.

Any lady in Hancock County interested in learning more about our Club and its interests, or for making reservations to the luncheon, please contact President Amelia Killeen at 467-0589.

You don't have to be a doctor or a nurse to save lives at Hancock Medical Center

Doctors, nurses and other medical personnel at Hancock Medical Center help people and save lives every day as part of their job. But on Thursday, May 13th, these lifesavers will join forces with the American Red Cross and other residents of Hancock County to save lives in yet another way. Hancock Medical Center will include a Red Cross blood drive as part of their Hospital Week activities this year. Hospital employees, their families, friends and community blood donors are rolling up their sleeves to break a hospital record and collect at least 100 pints of blood. The Red Cross bloodmobile will be located at the front entrance of the hospital on Thursday, May 13th from 9:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. All blood types are needed and every donor will receive a "Join the Lifeline" t-shirt as a thank you for saving lives.

Blood donors are being encouraged to give blood this spring and then to do it again at least two more times this year. "If all blood donors would give blood at least three times a year, we would not experience the critical shortages that occur in the blood supply and put patients lives at risk," commented Liz Gaulke, Account Manager with the American Red Cross. An aging population, advances in medical technology and increasing restrictions on giving blood have contributed to the demand outweighing supply. Blood shortages now occur in our country throughout much of the year, rather than just during the Christmas holidays and the summer months. Statistics show that most blood donors only give once a year. Increasing the frequency to three times a year will help insure that patients needing blood will get what they need, when they need it during surgery or childbirth, to treat cancer, leukemia, sickle cell anemia or to replace blood lost during accidents or other traumas. Blood donors save lives.

To donate blood you must be 17 years old or older, weigh at least 110 pounds, be in good health and have not donated in the past 56 days. Giving blood is safe and takes only about an hour to complete the entire process.

For more information about giving blood or volunteer opportunities with the Red Cross, please call the American Red Cross at 896-2217. To schedule an appointment to donate blood at Hancock Medical Center, contact, Kathleen Quintini-Cook at 467-8683.

Southern Miss lab, aquarium supply coast teacher's 'learning' vacations

Some people take vacations: Teacher Shani Bourn takes marine biology.

She is now working on her third degree from The University of Southern Mississippi. The Hancock High School environmental science teacher describes herself as a "USM junkie," and ocean and coastal sciences provide her fix.

Bourn is a regular in both the teacher workshops at Southern Miss' Scott Aquarium in Biloxi and the intense courses offered through the summer marine sciences field program at the university's Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs.

"Last summer I took marine mammals, sharks, elasmobranch biology, marine ecology, and marine law and policy at the GCRL," she said. "Elasmobranch biology. I had a blast with that course."

Bourn's first course through the GCRL was a coastal ecology for teachers course at Scott Aquarium in 1994. As part of her master's degree program, she took the course under Dr. Sharon Walker, administrator of the aquarium and professor of coastal sciences.

"I fell in love with her excitement, enthusiasm and extreme expertise," Bourn said. When Bourn was an undergraduate, she met another of her mentors, Dr. Shelia Brown, now also with the Southern Miss aquarium.

"I still pull out material from that coastal ecology class and use activities from it. It is tried and true. Anything they (Walker and Brown) do is of high quality and gives me lots and lots of information," Bourn said. "As a teacher, I need information from different areas. I enjoy science and enjoy teaching so much, I want to make sure my students have a good base."

Bourn admits, she also just likes learning new things. "My mom noticed that with both my master's and doctorate I go charging after the science courses. Then I backtrack and do the education classes. I like to get my knowledge first and then get my education classes to learn how best to get that knowledge across to my students."

By the end of this summer, her courses at the GCRL should complete her residency requirement as she works toward her doctorate in science education with a coastal sciences emphasis. At the lab, most of Bourn's classmates are science majors. There was a time, she said, when science majors looked down on education majors; never at the GCRL, though, she said. "Fellow students are more enthusiastic, encouraging me to keep on learning."

Now in her 12th year at Hancock High, she also teaches aquatic science and zoology, earned her National Board Certification in 1999 and is adjunct faculty at Pearl River Community College. With her vast repertoire of science courses, Bourn has no worries about meeting the state requirements for a "highly qualified" status under the national No Child Left Behind program.

College courses are one of several options for teachers working toward "highly qualified" status, and Bourn offers her perspective about opportunities for teachers at GCRL and Scott Aquarium.

"Be aware that GCRL is rigorous," she said. "For a breadth of knowledge, choose courses that cover a number of areas. General courses like coastal ecology for teachers give you knowledge of the geological, chemical and physical oceanography aspects as well as of relationships among the living organisms. The same applies to the course on ecology of seagrasses that I took the summer of 2002. It gives you useful bits and pieces of different aspects of marine systems."

At Scott Aquarium she especially enjoys workshops targeting specific areas. There, too, the opportunity for college graduate credit is available to teachers who take a number of different workshops.

"Deep sea corals and methane seeps are hot topics now," she said. "Taking those kinds of workshops helps me keep up with new discoveries."

Bourn is already booking her summer with the lab, looking forward to invertebrate zoology and coastal vegetation.

"Academically, you shouldn't earn your master's and doctorate from the

Theatre partners with FRIENDS

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre (BSLLT) and Friends of the Animal Shelter in Hancock County (Friends) are teaming up to support the Waveland Animal Shelter. During the upcoming BSLLT production of Fuddy Meers the community is encouraged to attend the play and bring supplies or donations for the Shelter for a ticket discount of $2.00.

"What a great community partnership" everybody can support our community theater and raise funds for the Waveland Animal Shelter at the same time, said Friends President Micky Evans. According to Fuddy Meers Assistant to the Director, Libba Tallant, the Shelter is looking for cat litter, bleach and liquid laundry detergent.

Displays in the lobby of the John F. Holmes Playhouse during the play will raise awareness of the new Spay and Neuter Clinic recently opened at the Waveland Animal Shelter. In Hancock County, 79 percent of the 4,000-plus animals brought into the Waveland Animal Shelter in 2002 were euthanized and spaying and neutering is the only viable solution to controlling the pet overpopulation, according to Evans.

All adopted animals are now required to be spayed and/or neutered before going to their new homes. The cost for adoption is $65, which includes the spay/neuter, shots and a microchip.

Fuddy Meers, a comedy of confusion by David Lindsay-Abaire, will be presented at the playhouse at 301 Boardman Avenue in Bay St. Louis on May 14, 15, 20 and 22 at 8:00 p.m. with special matinee performances on Sunday May 16 and 23 at 2:00 p.m. Former shelter dogs will be featured in each play performance.

Admission is $12 for adults, $10 for seniors 65 and above, and $7 for students 17 and below. The Bay St. Louis Little Theater has a general seating policy. Tickets will be available at the door and doors open 30 minutes prior to performance.

For more information, please visit: www.bsllt.org or call the Bay St. Louis Little Theater at (228) 467-2587.

same university, but I needed something close to home. When the time came to look for a Ph.D. program, Southern Miss was close, and I like the science ed mixture that the (Southern Miss) Center for Science and Mathematics Education delivers. It is just enough education that I stay abreast of research and procedures, trends and policy, and I really, really enjoy the pure science classes."

And that, she said, moves her closer to her ultimate goal: "to help my students gain useful knowledge of the environment around them, but even more important, to gain an appreciation of the natural world. Things can be around you all the time, and you may never realize how fragile and unique they are."

For more information about summer educational opportunities at the GCRL and Scott Aquarium, visit www.usm.edu/gcrl or contact (228) 872-4223 for GCRL and (228) 374-5550 for Scott Aquarium.

DuPont -- hearing

the evening, beginning about 8:15 p.m.

The plant is seeking to expand operations by 16 percent, which would add 82 tons of particulates, 198 tons of nitrogen oxides, 38 tons of sulfur dioxides, 39 tons of volatile organic compounds, 98 tons of carbon monoxide, 1 ton of total reduced sulfur, and 2 tons of hydrogen chloride to the air, as a "worst case scenario" said DEQ officials.

Raising the limits of the existing permit, that has been in violation since 1989, would raise permit limits 81 tons for particulates, 75 tons for volatile organic compounds, 28 tons for chlorine, 135 tons for total reduced sulfur, 6 tons for nitrogen oxides, 616 tons for sulfur dioxides and 8 tons for hydrogen chloride.

A long line of supporters cited economic development, economic support in local schools and communities and mentoring programs as reasons for allowing the air emissions expansions. Bay St. Louis resident Maurice Singleton said the company had opened up many opportunities for local residents and called DuPont's policies "refreshing."

Several teachers from the Pass Christian School District praised the plant for their contributions to area schools via tax revenues, and for their mentoring programs for children. In a lengthy speech, plant employee Rod Ladner, who said he had once been a commercial fisherman, said he was inspired to seek employment at the plant when he discovered that the nylon nets he used for fishing were a DuPont product.

Sierra club member Paula Vassey began opposition comments emphasizing that as yet, no one had mentioned health concerns, only economic concerns. Vassey said according to statistics from the American Cancer Society, the coast area has the highest cancer rates in the state.

"There are plenty of companies who contribute economically to the community," said Vassey. "And who don't kill us. Many talked about money contributed to the schools, but if DuPont continues to pollute we won't have any kids to educate."

Sierra Club Chairperson Brenda Songy told listeners that to state that the toxins released by the plant were harmless was absurd, and to state that they are not released at all is a lie. She said her child had to be hospitalized with respiratory problems after moving to the area.

"If a drug pusher donated money to your schools, would you embrace them," Songy said. "Drugs kill and so does pollution."

"Everyone speaking in favor of the expansions seemed to have a financial incentive," said Paul Stewart. But the people speaking now have a health concern. When no one wants to live in the area because of pollution, that will be a major economic concern."

Chair of the Mississippi

Chapter of the Sierra Club. Rose Johnson introduced Dr. Peter Defer, an environmental expert hired by the organization. He said that the permit applications to the DEQ were flawed with no proper documentation given to justify such expansions. He said that pollutants in minute amounts can cause health problems and that every person in the area was already carrying more than a safe burden of pollutants in their bodies. He called for regulating agencies to access the cumulative effects of pollutants both in the residents and in the environment, to order increased reporting from the plant, and to demand drastic reductions in toxic emissions. The hearing continued until around 11:30 p.m.

DEQ officials will consider both written and spoken comments before making a decision on issuing the requested permits. No time frame was given for the decision on Thursday.

• The only remaining holdup to the Texas Flat Road paving project is the acquisition of rights of way. Attorney Jack Pittman advised supervisors on Monday that an across the board offer to property owners of $700/acre, plus timber value, would go a long way to ease that process. All but three of the 31 parcels involved in the acquisition are located in the Stennis Buffer Zone.

One of the three is Port and Harbor property held by the county, another is owned by the Pearl River Basin and one is privately owned. Offers will be made immediately to property owners, who must be given a reasonable time to respond positively or make a counter offer. The process should take three or four months, Pittman said.

Rights of way acquisitions are also holding up construction on the Caesar Necaise Bridge and road project. Five property owners are involved in the acquisitions.

• The BaySide Fire Protection District will hold a public hearing on May 20 at 7 p.m. The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss the possibility of acquiring a

Peace Officers Memorial Day

If there is just one day of the year in which every law enforcement officer, police department, families of police and family survivors should hold dear, it is May 15th. An Act of Congress dedicates this day to the memory of comrades-at-arms that has died in the line of duty.

The week of May 9th through May 15th is dedicated as "Police Officers Week." Also by act of Congress, May 15th is a day on which all American flags should fly at half-mast.

The Bay Saint Louis Police Department, The Waveland Police Department, the Hancock County Sheriff's Office and the Mississippi Highway Patrol would like to extend an invitation to you and your family to be with us on Thursday, May 13th, 10a.m. at the Hancock County Courthouse front lawn to honor those who have died. Please plan to attend.

new fire truck with grant funds from Rural Development.

• The tentative date for a Hazardous Waste Drop Off Day is set for June 26.

• Repetitive flood loss could become one of the top issues affecting development in Hancock County in the future, said building official Mickey Lagasse. Three years ago the county listed 100 repetitive loss properties, now the county lists 265 properties considered to be repetitive loss risks.

This must be controlled, he said. Lagasse recommended building on pilings along the 603 corridor, or at the very least managing fill with proper setbacks to act as drainage corridors. Without these considerations development will be creating more flood hazards for neighboring properties and roadways, he said.

• Architect Ed Wycoff introduced his ideas for a proposed new county office facility between 1st and 3rd on Hwy. 603. The 25,000 square ft. building would ease congestion at the downtown courthouse and tax assessor's office. The county has no plans to go forward with the project in the foreseeable future, said supervisors.

ing new ground in science education that we hope will draw new waves of explorers into careers in science, engineering and math."

"Nations who explore are nations who lead - nations who cease to explore take their place and are led," said Education Program Development Director at Stennis Space Center John Wilson. "All children are born scientists with a sense of wonder. The wonderful world of discovery must be awake in all of us for all of our lives."

The project concept and design result from a public-private partnership between NASA and MAST, Inc., a non profit organization chartered by a group of area business leaders to work with NASA on the project.

Visitors will explore three primary galleries: Earth, science and oceans focused on three common themes: Remote sensing, testing, and planning and protecting.

MAST Chairman Leo Seal with former Stennis Space Center director and current Johnson Space Center Director Roy Estess, after the project's unveiling on Thursday.

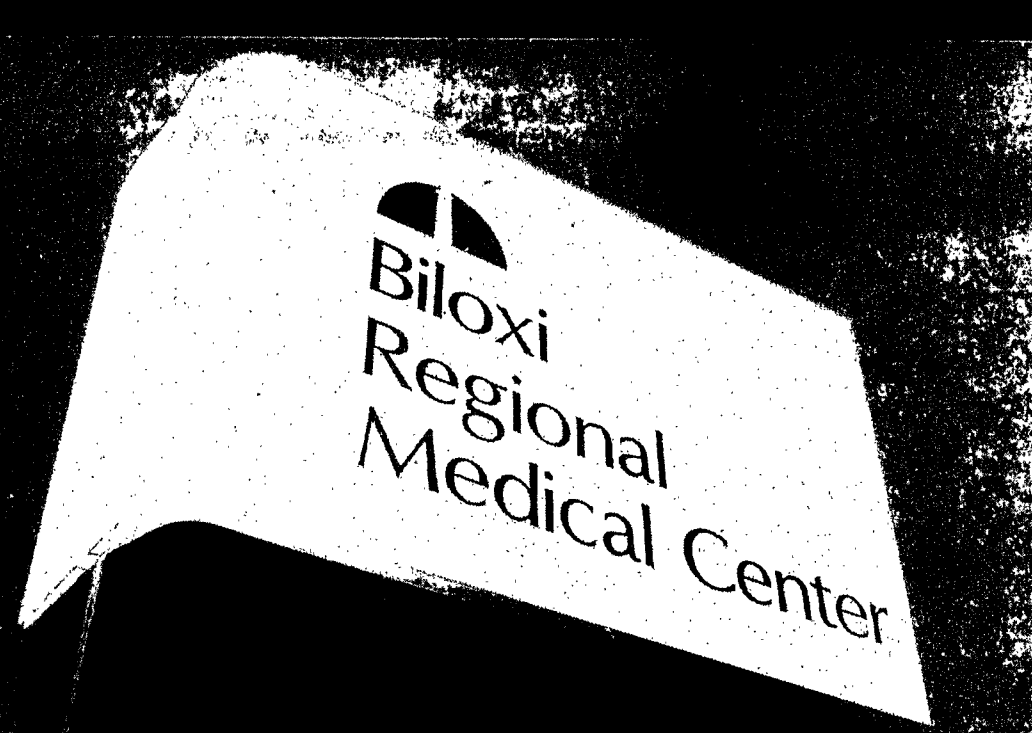

The center is expected to be fun, dynamic and immersive, attracting a diverse array of visitors. It will incorporate assets of StennisSphere and the Educator Resource Center.

The design for the center comes from one of the world's foremost experiential design firms, ESI Design founded by Dr. Edwin Schlossberg and based in New York. NASA funded $5 million to date for the center and has budgeted another $4 million toward completion of the project. MAST has begun raising the remaining $26 million through public and private gifts.

A recreation market analysis study conducted by Harrison Price indicates that INFINITY is expected to draw 260,000 to 362,000 visitors annually and become financially self-sufficient.

Hancock Medical Center's Annual Community Health Fair drew hundreds Saturday, who took advantage of numerous free health screenings. There were more than 60 booths with information on health and giveaways, and events for children, including face painting, Fire Department "Smoke House," safety tips, refreshments, etc. Mrs. John Dambrino, 98, of Bay St. Louis accepts a Hancock Medical Center T-shirt from Brandon Slocum, HMC financial officer, photo at right, for being the oldest in attendance at the event. The feast-day is celebrated at the Shrine of the Holy Infant in Morelia on the last Sunday in April and is celebrated here in the United States in May. On February 15, 1997 the chapel at St. Ann's Church was dedicated and the image of the Holy Infant was blessed by the Bishop in Morelia on November 10, 1999 to become the Pilgrim Statue for the United States. Many have prayed to the Holy Infant over the years and received healings, but most of all they have found amazing strength to accept God's will.

Pennies from Heaven to benefit Hope Haven

It's that time of year again! Dig under those seat cushions, empty out those car ashtrays... and watch your change...change the lives of local children who have been abused and neglected!

Pennies from Heaven drive will start on Memorial Day weekend and end on Labor Day weekend. We raised almost one half million pennies last year. This year we have set a goal of one million pennies ($10,000).

You can drop off your contributions at any branch of The Peoples Bank or Hancock Bank, at the collection stand in front of the Food Court at Edgewater Mall Diamondhead Drug Store or Hope Haven Office, 126 Court St., Bay St. Louis.

All donations will be used to provide care for local abused and neglected children. We appreciate the sponsorship of Edgewater Mall, Peoples Bank, Hancock Bank and Triad Broadcasting.

Hope Haven is a non-profit State Reg. Charity and a proud member of the United Way of South MS. P.O. Box 37 Bay St. Louis, MS 39520 228-467-7945.

All donations are 100% tax deductible.

Special thanks to Abita Springs for providing the water bottles for use as the collection containers.

Weather and mice to highlight story hours

The children's story hour's at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, the Kiln Public Library and the Waveland Public Library will take a summer hiatus until September.

Children are urged to contact the library branch nearest them to inquire about the library system's 2004 Summer Reading Program. Preregistration for the program begins Monday, May 24.

How's the Weather? is the theme for the story hour at the Waveland Public Library on Tuesday, May 11, at 10:30 a.m. Karen Cotton, branch manager, will read Sunny Days, Cloudy Days and Windy Days. Children will make a rain stick and receive a color sheet.

Sunny and Story Weather is the theme of the story hour at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library on Wednesday, May 12, at 10:30 a.m. Susan Daigre, program coordinator, will read Tops & Bottoms, Very Hungry Caterpillar and Windy Days. Children will make a weather craft.

Mice are Nice is the theme for the story at the Kiln Public Library on Thursday, May 13, at 10:30 a.m. Karen Strange will read One Little Mouse and Mouse Mess. Children will sing a song, play a game and make a paper mouse.

Weekly story hours are held September through

May. Programs last approximately one half hour, depending upon subject matter and planned activity.

Programs and activities are designed for pre-school age children three to five years old who are not part of a nursery or pre-school group.

Great Books group to meet at Waveland Library

Antigone by Sophocles is the topic of discussion at the Great Books Discussion Group meeting on Wednesday, May 12, at 7 p.m. in the meeting room of the Waveland Public Library. Please note the change in location for this meeting.

The selection is from An Introduction to Great Books, First Series. Several copies are available for checkout at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

The Great Books discussion group, sponsored by the Hancock County Library System, has been meeting and discussing books since March, 1990. During that time, they have read more than 345 titles from great books (Plato, Hobbes, Locke deTocqueville), Mississippi fiction, play readings and 20 philosophical questions. The group meets every other Wednesday at 7 p.m. The Great Books Foundation was established in 1947 by University of Chicago Chancellor Robert Manyard Hutchins. Its mission is to provide people of all ages, backgrounds and walks of life with the opportunity to read, discuss and learn from outstanding works of literature.

Today, more than 20,000 adults are members of Great Books discussion groups, and nearly one million students participate in Junior Great Books groups for grades kindergarten through 12.

Anyone is welcome to attend the meetings. The only requirement is that you read the selection before the meeting. For information, call Jamie Elston at 467-5282.

Southern Miss helps design expert keep NASA's engines running

Haynes Haselmaier is an integral part of NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center Propulsion Test Directorate as a design expert and consultant for unique high-pressure valves. And thanks to The University of Southern Mississippi and the Intergovernmental Personnel Act (IPA), he can continue to be that all-important moving part in the propulsion-testing machinery.

For almost 30 years, Haselmaier has met engineering challenges for NASA as either a contractor or subcontractor, working out problems in the rocket propulsion systems that drive America's space program. Over the years, Haselmaier's employer changed as government contracts were awarded to different companies, often limiting his contribution based on that particular contract. About two years ago, NASA and Haselmaier came to Southern Miss for a solution.

Under the IPA, Haselmaier is paid by NASA through Southern Miss for his very specialized expertise. As a Southern Miss employee, Haselmaier has a stable employer with secure benefits and NASA has flexibility in their ability to share Haselmaier's talents among NASA centers or with contractors working for the space agency.

"At Southern Miss, I have a home," said Haselmaier. "My position is stable and it's flexible to my customer."

A very recent example of the payoff for this kind of flexibility is how Haselmaier solved a valve problem that had stymied two test projects at Stennis, one of those supporting the Space Shuttle's return to flight activities.

"Haynes recommended redesign of the valve's thrust washer," said Miguel A. Rodriguez, director of NASA's Propulsion Test Directorate at Stennis. "He coordinated the design change and parts manufacture, supervised the valve build-up, and coordinated and participated in the design verification testing, exhibiting outstanding personal commitment that was critical to the timely resolution of this issue."

"Haynes Haselmaier is an outstanding asset in our organization," Rodriguez said. In fact, Haselmaier received a U.S. patent in April for his seal ring installation tool created on the job at Stennis. Designed to facilitate the installation of a primary seal ring between the hub ends of pipe flanges, the tool provides proper alignment of a seal ring without causing contamination or damage to the components, while eliminating potential injury to the installer.

Dr. Cecil Burge, associate vice president for research and technology transfer at Southern Miss, said he understands the importance of the work IPAs provide for NASA and other governmental agencies located at Stennis Space Center.

"The agencies utilize the IPA for many reasons," Burge said. "Frequently, they have the need to acquire very specialized personnel in a compressed time frame. At other times, the IPA arrangement provides a more managerially efficient and flexible operation. The Stennis (Space) Center complex is a tremendous economic asset for south Mississippi. At Southern Miss, we always try to accommodate our Stennis agencies in any way at our disposal. At the same time, the IPAs broaden the expertise and perspective of our research community."

For Haselmaier, the IPA keeps him on a job he loves. Haselmaier is also excited about the prospect of future research with Southern Miss if the opportunity arises.

"I could see one day replacing some of the older plastics in these valves with new polymers," he said. "If so, we could reach back into that group at Southern Miss for that type of expertise."

MDEQ to post daily ozone air quality index and ozone forecasts for the Gulf Coast on web site

The Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) has begun posting daily on its web site, <http://opc.deq.state.ms.us/aqi/default.htm>, an ozone air quality index (AQI) and ozone forecasts for the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The information will also be provided directly to Gulf Coast media for use in daily weather broadcasts and news publications.

While Mississippi's overall air quality as it relates to ozone is good, seasonal changes cause ground-level ozone to accumulate for short periods. Ground-level ozone occurs generally during the summer months of May-September when certain weather conditions are present in areas of higher population density like the Gulf Coast. "Posting this information on our web site will be an important tool in helping to maintain the air quality in our state," said Dwight Wylie, Chief of the MDEQ Air Division. "We will continue to monitor air emissions, weather conditions, and other factors that impact Mississippi's air quality."

The AQI is a national index used for reporting daily air quality. It indicates how clean the air is and the potential associated health effects a person may experience within a few hours or days after breathing the air.

An ozone forecast will alert individuals and businesses when conditions are favorable for the formation of ozone.

When an ozone action alert is issued through the forecast or the AQI indicates unhealthy conditions, particularly for persons with pre-existing respiratory problems, there are steps everyone can take to help reduce air pollution. Such steps include simple changes to home, transportation, and consumer habits like:

- Drive less, especially during peak traffic periods or hot days. When it is an ozone action or alert day, delay trips until after the peak ground level ozone hours.
- On ozone action days, delay home maintenance (e.g., mowing the lawn, painting, et cetera).
- Use public transportation, walk, or ride a bike.
- Shop by phone, mail, or Internet.
- Combine errands into one trip.
- Avoid revving or idling engine over 30 seconds.
- Plant deciduous trees in locations around the home to provide shade in the summer, but to allow light in the winter.
- Recycle paper, plastic, glass bottles, cardboard, and aluminum cans. (This conserves energy and reduces production emissions.)

Earlier this month, MDEQ received notice from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) that the state was in attainment with all of the federal Clean Air Act ambient quality standards for 2001-2003. Mississippi was one of only three states, (Mississippi, Florida, and Vermont), east of the Mississippi River to achieve attainment designation for the entire state.

"MDEQ is pleased to have the capability to monitor air quality conditions and to make this important air quality information available to the public and the media," Wylie said. "Armed with this information, people can make decisions about their activities in order to be protective of their health and the environment."

The Mississippi Coastal Impact Assistance Program, administered by the MDEQ, funded portions of this program. Ozone air quality monitoring data will be posted daily May-September, 2004.

For more information on ozone in Mississippi, go to the MDEQ web site at www.deq.state.ms.us/MDEQ.nsf/page/Air_Ozone.

Orleans PD, Hancock Sheriff's Department to battle in softball

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus
What is to be an annual sporting event, the NOPD-HCSO Championship Cup will be up for grabs each year between the New Orleans Police Department and Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

The first game is scheduled for Saturday, May 15, 2 p.m. at the Bay High Tiger's baseball field.

New Orleans Police

Superintendent Edward Compass and Deputy Superintendent Warren Riley, both are members of the New Orleans squad, according to spokesman Sgt. Andre Menzies.

Coach for Garber's Raiders is Major Matt Karl, assisted by Capt. Joe Herrin. Karl said, "This is a time for officers to get out and enjoy themselves. Admission will be free and I hope we have a large turnout for the first such game."

Coach for the Compass-Riley Raiders is Capt. Marvin Diffilo.

The NOPD-HCSO Championship Cup is to be played on an annual basis and next year's game will be held in New Orleans, according to the organizers.

Bay High's baseball squad will operate and benefit from the concession stand, Karl reported.

NOPD Patrolman Darren Hartman said, "The game to be played is over hand pitched softball with an arc."

The trio of Karl, Menzies and Hartman, all indicated that this play for the NOPD-HCSO Championship Cup should be a very enjoyable afternoon.

SSC golf team places second in state

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
STAFF WRITER

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws golf team took state runner-up honors in Class 4A at Brookhaven Country Club, on Tuesday, May 5. This is the second state runner-up finish for SSC. Their other silver medal finish was in 1995.

The team sat in fifth place after the first day of competition but used a strong surge in the second day to finish just five strokes shy of the championship.

George County won the state title with a two-day total of 619 followed by SSC with a 624. Brookhaven finished third on their home course with a 629 followed by Terry 629, Pearl 630, West Jones 631, Hernando 651, Kosciusko 651, Petal 653, East Central 654, Mendenhall 659, Oxford 662, Amory 668, and Itawamba at 686.

The Rocks were led by state bronze medalist James Wahl who shot a 76 and 72. T.J. Koger shot a 76 and 78 followed by Mitch Higgins with an 82 and 78. Damian Holcomb shot a 83 and 82 and John Chapoton rounded out the top five for SSC with a 93 and a 97.

During the course of the 2004 season, SSC participated in 12 tournaments including the state match. The Rocks placed first six times including the Division 8 Class 4A team championship. The team had one second place finish which was at the state finals, three third place finishes, one seventh place finish and a tournament that was called on account of darkness.

The team is coached by SSC alum Chuck Genin who also guided the Rocks to their previous runner-up finish in 1995.

According to Genin, the team began a turnaround after the Gulf Coast Invitational which was held at Diamondhead and featured 15 teams from along the Mississippi Gulf Coast. He stated, "The team began to find themselves after the Gulf Coast Invitational in which they placed seventh. The focus and determination began to show. I am extremely proud of our players. They displayed outstanding determination to improve their level of play. I am especially thrilled for the seniors who ended their career with this state runner-up finish."

The Rocks lose three seniors - T.J. Koger, John Chapoton and Damian Holcomb - who have been integral parts of SSC golf for many years. Koger finished low scorer for SSC three times this season including Division 8 Class 4A low medalist and Holcomb one time.

James Wahl and Mitch Higgins both return in 2005. Another returning golfer for SSC who rotated with Chapoton as the fifth player is eighth grader Joe Muscarello.

Genin continued, "The team's focus at the state match never diminished even after the fifth place showing following the first day. The team entered the match with a no nonsense attitude and that carried throughout the tournament. They were up early hitting balls and practicing putting. They went to Brookhaven to win it and fell five strokes short. This was an extremely dedicated group. I would also like to the staff and pros at Pass Christian Isles for assisting SSC all season long and helping us reach the state finals. We would not have been able to accomplish what we did without their help and assistance throughout the spring. Diamondhead, The Oaks and The Bridges were also very helpful to our team during the spring."

PRCC Wildcats end baseball season with 4-2 loss in regionals

RAYMOND — Pearl River's first-ever state championship baseball season ended here Thursday in the Region 23 Division II South Tournament with a 4-2 loss to Copiah-Lincoln in the semi-finals.

Wildcat head coach Jay Artigues was obviously disappointed, but reflected on his team's best win-loss season in history.

"You hate to see it end like this, but we had a great year," said Artigues. "We won our conference, our first state championship, we're ranked No. 2 in the nation, and we set a school record for wins in a season with 42."

That's pretty good in anybody's league."

Pearl River, Co-Lin, and Hinds entered the regionals fresh off the MACJC State Tournament that ended Monday in Poplarville.

"That's an obstacle Co-Lin, Hinds, and us had to deal with," Artigues said. "It's difficult to keep up the momentum like that."

"But I can't say enough about our guys...particularly our sophomores. They played hard and worked hard all year long and set strong examples for our first-year guys. They're champions in my book."

Hancock honors Brett Favre with statue, field

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
STAFF WRITER

The ceremony officials could not have asked for a better and brighter day to honor Hancock County's greatest gridiron hero - Green Bay Packers All-Pro quarterback Brett Favre.

It was a day that Rocky Gaudin, ceremony organizer, called "...a great day to honor the contributions of Brett Favre and his family."

Saturday, May 8, was celebrated as Brett Favre Day in Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock County.

Brett Favre stated, "I am truly humbled by the outpouring of love and affection that the community of Hancock County is showing me today. To say that I am humbled is an understatement. I am somewhat embarrassed by these honors. Having something like this done for you makes you feel like it is an honor that you don't deserve. It is a tremendous amount to the community of Hancock County and Hancock High School. This day brings back very special memories from years past."

The day started early with junior varsity and varsity scrimmages between Hancock, St. Stanislaus, Biloxi and Pascagoula high schools. The ceremony featured several of Brett's former coaches and administrators. But, ultimately it had the family touch of the hero that we remember as the boy who just loved to play football.

Officials from the three local governments in Hancock County read proclamations that named May 8th as Brett Favre Day. James Thrifflay, III, represented the City of Bay St. Louis while Mayor Tommy Longo stood for the City of Waveland. Jay Cuevas was the representative for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Robin Roberts of ABC/ESPN was the mistress of ceremonies. She welcomed the crowd by talking of her days growing up in Pass Christian and playing basketball for the Lady Pirates. She recalled games against their heated rival - Hancock North Central. She talked of the difficult assignments she had trying to stop Hancock's Joye Nell Lee on the hardwood.

Roberts introduced Joe Shaw, Brett's former junior high football coach. Shaw a longtime assistant coach at also testified to the humility of Brett Favre. He continued, "...Brett Favre always wants to win but he never puts himself above the team. That is what separates Brett even back then I told her of my dreams to play pro football. I was where you are today (speaking to the four teams of players behind him). I just wanted to play to football. But, it was instilled in me very early to never put myself above the team. This day is truly an honor. I thank the community of Hancock County for all they have done for me."

David Kopf, Superintendent of Education of Hancock County, received the podium following Brett Favre. He and Peggy Ladner, President of the Hancock County School Board, gave Favre the surprise that he did not expect.

Favre knew about the statue being unveiled, but the school district went one step further and renamed the field at Hawk Stadium in honor of Brett Favre. Following the dedication of the field, Favre unveiled the statue at the stadium's entrance that was sculpted by Mississippi artist Edmond Shumpert.

It was truly a day for the family. Many old friends were able to get together and rekindle old war stories. But, this was Brett Favre's day.

Favre, together with his family and friends, enjoyed a day in the limelight. He would rather seek refuge in a hunting blind or time alone with his family.

However, on May 8th Brett Favre was with his family - Hancock County.

This is where it all started for arguably the greatest quarterback in the history of the NFL. For the humble Brett Favre, it couldn't have been a better day full of surprises.

Brett Favre Day patron party scores big with fans

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
STAFF WRITER

The Bridges Clubhouse at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis was the site of the patron party on Friday night honoring Brett and Deanna Favre and the patrons that helped make Brett Favre Day a success.

The invitation only social was an assortment of businesses, politicians, Hancock School District personnel, and close friends committed to the success of honoring Hancock County's favorite gridiron hero.

Mingling through the crowd were high school teammates Stanley Jordan and Desmond Hoda reliving old times on the gridiron.

Former Hancock North Central principal and current Hancock County Superintendent of Education David Kopf and current Hancock principal Donnie Gholston greeted the many guests that entered the clubhouse.

Taren Sessions and Freda Hoda continued friendships that have stood the test of time. Coaches Rocky Gaudin and Joe Shaw beamed as many former athletes and students came up to give them their latest news.

It was really more than just a party to honor the donors and patrons of this fine event, it was like a reunion.

As co-chairperson of Brett Favre Day, Rocky Gaudin stated, "It was a great way for friends to get back together and enjoy some good times."

Beth Seymour and Rocky Gaudin scored a touchdown with the patron party backed up by Casino Magic, sponsors of the social.

All the while, gridiron great Brett Favre, along with his family, met with virtually everyone who came calling. In a true display of humility, the greatest of quarterbacks sat back and let the play develop on its own. There were no interceptions here, just touchdown passes.

Waveland Mayor Tommy Longo presents Brett Favre with the "Keys to the City."

Flushed!

During a meeting at the Southern Regional Wastewater Management District Office in Waveland Tuesday, May 4th, lucky recipients of the Royal Flushers were...the Honorable Tommy Longo, Mayor of Waveland; the Honorable Eddie Favre, Mayor of Bay St. Louis; the Honorable Ronnie Artigues, Jr., County Attorney; and the Honorable Rocky Pullman, Hancock County Supervisor. These lovely flushers were sent to these gentlemen compliments of the Wastewater Management Staff. Mayor Longo received the "Royal King" version (lime green with snakes, frogs, bugs and an alligator in the bowl). Ronnie Artigues received the "Royal Queen" version (hot pink with rhinestones and flowers). Rocky Pullman received one of the two new versions of the Royal Flushers, "The Runaway Bride", decorated with pearls, beads, flowers and greenery. Mayor Favre, a second time recipient of the Royal Flusher, received the second newest edition to the Flushers, "The Austin Powers" version, decorated with psychedelic colors in far-out designs. Mayor Favre was grateful that he had taken out the insurance policy with the Royal Flusher Casualty Company which seem to have paid off with his second Royal Flushing. Designers of the Royal Flushers are Michelle Feindel and Ashley Hoda of Waveland, and Arlene Johnson of Bay St. Louis. The Royal Flushers project is a fund raiser for the American Cancer Society.

Southern Miss Gulf Coast to hold graduation ceremony May 15

What better way to graduate from a university than to look off into the distance at the breath-taking scene of the Gulf of Mexico?

That's exactly what graduates of The University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast have to look forward to, as they participate in spring commencement exercises May 15 at the Gulf Park campus in Long Beach.

"We are proud of our lovely campus and its location on the Mississippi Sound," said Dr. Jay Grimes, provost of Southern Miss Gulf Coast. "The graduation ceremony last spring was spectacular and could have easily been a Hollywood set."

Of 421 total 2004 Southern Miss Gulf Coast graduates, 182 are expected to participate in the ceremony. Of the participants, 160 are scheduled to receive undergraduate degrees, while 15 will receive master's degrees and seven will receive doctoral degrees.

A Gulfport businessman and civic leader will be the keynote speaker at the graduation ceremony. Billy Hewes, a veteran real estate executive, insurance agent and current Ward 7 city councilman for the city of Gulfport, will address the graduates at the 9 a.m. ceremony.

Local students accepted to MSMS

Tree Hugger!

90-year-old battles to preserve the environment

BY BENNIE
SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Don't let the shock of white hair and her small stature fool you. Ninety-year-old self-professed "tree hugger" Mildred Fossier is a fighter and has been one for most of her life. Her battle has been one to preserve the natural world.

On Saturday her efforts were honored when the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service christened the 4.5 mile Mildred Fossier Bike Path at the Bayou Sauvage National Wildlife refuge in New Orleans East. Fossier played an instrumental role in the preservation of the wilderness area in her capacity as environmental consultant under Mayor Sidney J. Barthelemy.

Fossier has been a part time resident of Bay St. Louis all her life and her family has owned property in Hancock county for generations. These days she spends part of every week in her home on Felicity St. The property on Beach Blvd., where she spent her childhood, and her father before her, is now the residence of Fossier's niece. Fossier bought the Felicity St. house when the original beach house was blown away in a hurricane, she said. She is the daughter of Dr. Albert E. and May Kellar Fossier.

Fossier started her career with the City of New Orleans during the time of the integration of schools, when she became Director of Welfare under Mayor Victor H. Schiro, the first female director of any city department. When Moon Landrieu was elected he took a look at Fossier's record for getting things done and asked her to take over as the director of the Environmentalist Mildred Fossier in her yard at her home on Felicity Street in Bay St. Louis. Fossier was honored in a ceremony dedicating a 4.5 mile long bike path to her at Bayou Sauvage Preserve in Louisiana.

Parkway and Park Commission.

"It was quite a shock to the men," she said. "They thought they would have to put lace curtains in the trucks. Moon told me to clean up the city and bring it up to the 20th century. He knew I was good at organizing."

During her years under Landrieu Fossier gained a reputation for enjoying a good fight. She took her job seriously, which was to go out and clean up every inch of the city and protect every tree, she said. And she didn't sit around whining about not being able to get anything done either. She took on anyone who was a threat to her domain, showing up personally at the site of utility or road projects and halting work by threatening fines for damage to trees or wildlife habitat.

Her pet name for the director of the streets was Cement Head. He, in turn, called her Bird Brain. One particular incident that Fossier recalls was a street repair project that used a machine to melt asphalt. The machine blew out steaming hot air and they had the exhaust pointed at some large magnolia trees. Fossier threatened to fine the department for damage for each of the trees and the work was halted until the trees could be protected.

"It was a fight; it was always a fight," said Fossier. "But it was a fight for something alive, for the trees, for the wildlife, for love." Some 70 parks and 100 miles of neutral ground were restored while Fossier was director.

Later, under Mayor Sidney J. Barthelemy, Fossier became a kind of environmental consultant, she said. She became instrumental in the work to preserve several wilderness areas including Bayou Sauvage (slated to become an airport site), Joe Brown Park (slated to become a football field), and the large tract of wilderness used by the Audubon Center for Research of Endangered Species.

She was there to lend her voice at meetings with the National Parks Service and to make often controversial suggestions to Mayor Barthelemy for changes in the wording of legislation. At times that meant raising her voice to a scream, she said, something she did not mind at all doing for a cause.

Besides her everyday work, Fossier has also been active with the League of Women Voters on environmental issues and with many other groups. She is on the advisory board of the Environmental Alliance for Affordable Energy.

She has been making the regular trips to Hancock County since she was three, she said, as did her father before her. The area hold many fond memories for Fossier, who grew up speaking both French and English. Living in two worlds, she said.

"In the old French world of my grandmother and in the modern world of my mother. My mother was a modern woman. Her sister was a suffragette and my parents supported her cause," she said.

Fossier remembers a large cypress skiff that her father built, that they would paddle out in the sound to go crabbing or

At the tone, the time is ...

I can't find it!" It was Stella. She was standing in the door to the living room looking at me with tears of exasperation.

"Can't find what?"
"The catalogue with that stupid watch you wanted for your birthday. I've looked everywhere."

We get about a dozen glossy catalogues a week offering beautiful things at exurbanite prices for which we have no use. Leafing through one, just as I was about to throw it away, I had noticed a watch that was actually a tiny radio receiver. Twice daily, it was said to receive a time calibration signal from Fort Collins, Colorado. Each time it received this signal, it corrected the watch's time.

I couldn't believe it. A watch that you wore on your wrist that was accurate within a thousandth of a second! For years at sea, we used elaborate electronic devices to get a Greenwich time hack. The time would then go to all the various instruments we were using to make sure they were all both synchronous and accurate. It didn't matter that we weren't sure where we were within several nautical miles, we wanted to be on time within at least one second.

With the instruments available today, we can know where we are almost anywhere within feet even in a canoe and if I had this wristwatch I would know the time for lunch in that same canoe within thousands of a second.

I had to have that watch! But there was more! It was also solar powered and had a digital display. Never having to worry about having to change the watch battery every three years seemed sort of nice but the fact that it was a digital display was to me far more important.

I have to confess that I have a somewhat delicate problem. It's not that I can't tell time using a dial display. Of course, I can. It's

TEN YEARS AGO

April 24, 1994 - A surprised David McDonald received a plaque from Dave Treutel, Jr., thanking him for his 20 years of service on the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission. McDonald is president of the Port and Harbor Commission and Treutel is president of the Chamber of Commerce. The special award was presented during the eighth annual Salute to Business & Industry held Friday at the Diamondhead Country Club.

The Hancock County official toyed with the idea of transferring all of its garbage responsibilities to the new Solid Waste Management District. Under such an order the district would be responsible for the county landfill operation and for financing the collection and disposal of refuge county-wide.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

April 26, 1984 - An inaugural run of the Gulf Coast Limited is scheduled Saturday for Amtrak, Rapid Rail, Transient Commission members and elected officials, with daily commuter service to begin Sunday between Mobile and New Orleans. At the Waveland-Bay St. Louis stop, Waveland and Central Avenues, John Longo, Waveland Mayor has planned a big celebration to begin at 12:30 p.m. The daily scheduled stop for the Waveland-Bay is 9:11 a.m. for the trip to New Orleans, and leaving the city at 6:30 p.m. in evenings, with a return time of 7:43 p.m. at Waveland. Delmar Wilcox of Waveland is a member of the Rapid Rail Transient Commission.

FORTY YEARS AGO

April 30, 1964 - A 24-hour storm which began in the pre-dawn Sunday, poured 11.21 inches of rain in the Bay-Waveland area causing extensive damage and virtually paralyzing northern Hancock County as several key bridges succumbed to swollen rivers and streams. Winds reached a peak at 72-miles an hour (hurricane force) between 10:05 and 10:15 p.m. Sunday. Brother Joel of the weather observation station at St. Stanislaus College reported. Bridge collapses and road washouts in Beats 2 and 3 forced Hancock North Central to close Monday as none of the school buses could bring in the children. Then there was hail. Freshly fallen hail stones in Tuesday afternoon's flash storm measured at 1 3/4 inches in front of The Sea Coast Echo offices.

Mississippi House of Representatives Speaker Pro Tempore K.J.P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis points to a drawing by Ryan Rühr, a 6th grader at Hancock Middle School, who was a first place winner in an art contest sponsored by the Mississippi Bar Association. Ryan's picture is entitled "Your vote is like a piece of a puzzle - it can make a difference." At the bottom of the same board is a drawing by Jamie Jelinski, also a 6th grader at Hancock Middle School, who was a honorable mention winner with a drawing entitled "Show your allegiance - use your vote. It's your voice." The drawings are on display the State Capitol.

OLA student receives $8K scholarship

Laura Ellis of Pass Christian, Miss., a senior at Our Lady Academy, has been awarded an $8,000 University Scholarship to attend the University of Mobile.

The University Scholarship is awarded in recognition of the University of Mobile's goal of "Changing lives to Change the World." Recipients are selected based upon their potential to be successful at the university and as a future graduate. The award is valued at $2,000 per year (awarded over eight consecutive semesters) and is renewable provided the recipient maintains a full-time student status of 15 hours per semester and a 2.00 grade point average. The scholarship includes a $1,000 room-and-board grant, dependent upon living in the residence halls.

The University of Mobile is a Baptist-affiliated university located in Mobile, Ala. Approximately 1,900 students are enrolled in associate's, bachelor's, and master's programs in the College of Arts and Sciences, School of Business, School of Education, School of Leadership Development, School of Nursing, and School of Religion.

ship is open to seniors at the top of their class in all majors. Graduate students, juniors and occasional sophomores whose scholastic achievements are at the very highest levels also are eligible.

Phi Kappa Phi was founded in 1897 at the University of Maine. At present, there are more than 250 chapters worldwide with a total membership of some 50,000.

In addition to the students, seven MSU faculty members were inducted.

The new members include Alan G. Jensen II, a senior biological science major from Pass Christian, MS.

Hancock Middle student named USAA award winner

THE SEA COAST ECHO
 The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Rikki Barksdale from Bay St. Louis, MS has been named a United States National Award Winner in English.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students.

Rikki Barksdale, who attends Hancock Middle, was nominated for this national award by Mrs. Jean Aegler, an English teacher at the school.

Rikki Barksdale, will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Rikki Barksdale is the daughter of Paula and Lee Peterson of Bay St. Louis. The grandparents are Joyce and Hefter Maffey of Philadelphia, MS, and Angeliana and LeRoy Peterson of Waveland, MS.

organized civil defense organization got its shake-down cruise when it brought to ground two camping parties stranded on Rotten Bayou north of Fenton. The call for help in the Rotten Bayou area came from the wife of Dr. Edson McCabe, Mississippi City dentist who with two young children has left for the weekend at their Rotten Bayou fishing camp. After receiving the sheriff's office received the call, City CD Chief Bert Stieffel who got his boat, Ray Stieffel and Jimmy Travirca, started for the scene. Game Chief Deputy Eido Depro also went and Pat Toomey rushed up in his truck. Two bridges were out on the route to the scene and the group finally to the water's edge at the Charles Cantrell's home on Rotten Bayou. Cantrell let them another boat and motor and joined them in the search. Dr. McCabe and his children appeared amazed when the rescue party arrived, not knowing the severity of the storm, the same vicinity there were four others from Long Beach who were camping out in an old school bus which was getting into trouble with the rising tide. The boats took the entire group back to the Cantrell's where Mr. McCabe was waiting.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

April 23, 1954 - Bunnies bid Bay 'Bye' - The curious Spring phenomenon, known locally at the arrival of the Easter Bunnies, came off on schedule here this last weekend. Like the flight of the wild goose and the return of the swallows of Capistrano, the rush of these young creatures to this watering spot heralds the arrival of spring. And as usual most hobbies about the city ceased, while local bunny watchers took up their posts to study the ways and customs of the newcomers. Some of the more experienced bunny watchers maintain that the crop gets younger each year, thought the actions of the fledglings remain much the same. The bunnies habitually winter in New Orleans dormitories and society houses. They come to the coast to shed their winter garments and make their nests in unoccupied summer homes. The female is noted for her shorts hemming, lap warming and banjo playing. The male is best associated with bumper chawling and his ability to find his way to and from the seawall late at night. The sojourn is done now--the bushes and beaches have been left to house the whippoorwill and bobwhite. Citizens, as they patched their tires, were glad to swap the Greek letter words for four letter words and be done with it.

city schools, has been named as the Russian, Inc. for the campaign of a drive for Russians who have been our strong fortress for such a great part of the war. This is a "Share Your Clothes With Russians" campaign and there is a great need in Russia at this time for all types of clothing and shoes for men women and children. Any garment, that is clean and is in good condition or any size of underwear, socks, stockings, girdles, suspenders, belts, vests, trousers, dresses, skirts, blouses, jackets, top coats, overcoats, rain coats, capes, caps, men's wool or felt hats, hoods, shoes, etc., are needed in large quantity as possible and quickly. The campaign is being initiated by the State Department of Education, Mississippi Education Association and the Mississippi Parent Teachers Association. The goal for Mississippi is 200,000 pounds of clothing and shoes.

just that I occasionally get a little confused and get it wrong. Sort of an odd dyslexia that I have had trouble living with.

It has caused difficulties. During my youth in the service, there were several unpleasant incidents of my waking people up for watch earlier than they should have been (none complained about being woke up late).

When digital watches came into being, it was a godsend.

All my problems vanished.

I even had a car once with a digital speedometer! But lately, fashions have changed and wristwatches with digital displays are getting to be the exception.

Here in this wonderful catalogue was a watch with all kinds of niceties and it had a digital display!!

The price of this astonishing wristwatch was nice as well, $29.95. I circled the ad and gave the catalogue to Stella with the heavy suggestion that I had a birthday coming up and sat back and waited.

Now, with only three days from my birthday, Stella was telling me she couldn't find the catalogue.

I looked at her standing there in the doorway, completely unsympathetic.

"Did you try looking wristwatches up on the internet."

"I did! Your watch wasn't there!" Now she was glaring.

ing.

We went back to my office and went on line. On impulse rather than any deep thought, I told her to write "atomic watches" in the Google search box. In seconds, the company carrying the watch I wanted appeared as the first line item. I tried not to appear too smug while she pulled the order display on the screen.

Stella started to order, when I stopped her.

Beneath the $29.95 watch was another watch. It had all the same wonderful characteristics. However, this other watch cost $139.95.

It was described as being "rugged," to having a handsome metal case and band, and came with a guarantee that I could take it to depths of 300 meters. I didn't know what "rugged" meant and didn't anticipate going down to 300 meters (why would anyone do such a thing?), but heck it looked good, had a real nifty looking steel band and it was my birthday.

More importantly, it was Stella who was paying. I told Stella that rather than the cheapo, plastic band watch, this was the watch I wanted. It came on my birthday and I spent most of the day reading the instruction book that came with it.

When you see me, ask me what time it is. I'll be glad to tell you.

swimming with she and her brother. One day she thought she had a whole string of crabs and pulled the line forcefully out of the water. What came flying into the boat was not crabs, however, but a large sting ray that landed in the middle of the boat.

"As the sting ray landed, we all jumped out," she said. "It flew in and we flew out and pushed the boat to where we could get a fisherman to take it out. We could swim like fish."

Another favorite memory were the days spent on the Blaze family's pier at the foot of Washington Ave. They had bath houses and a diving board and a place to buy Delaware Punch at the end of the pier. One day her father made a bet with a friend that Mildred could dive from the top of the pier. Mildred knew she couldn't disappoint her father, who she adored.

"I was scared but I went up anyway and dove off," she said. "I did it and did a good job of it."

Mildred's father was an innovative too and was instrumental in introducing what was then the controversial idea of allowing people with heart conditions to live more active lives, rather than making them into invalids. He spent much time in the research of the heart, she said.

To what does Fossier attribute her rather charmed and interesting life? "I'll a bien tembe, which simply means, she fell good (into good circumstances). I fell good," she said.

Bay author Mimi Heitzmann to highlight third library program

THE SEA COAST ECHO

When you are a mother and your children leave home to pursue their own lives; it creates what is called "empty nest" syndrome. So how do women fill the void? How do they handle all the extra time that used to be spent caring for the children?

Mimi Monti Heitzmann turned to writing women's mainstream fiction. Light-hearted, feel-good stories about women who are approaching their forties, fifties and beyond.

Heitzmann is the featured author for the third Authors & Characters program in the meeting room of the Waveland Public Library at 11:45 Tuesday, May 11. The Authors & Characters @ Your Library series features Southern authors and characters - all with interesting tales to tell.

Heitzmann, a Bay St. Louis native, began writing her novels 5-1/2 years ago and has written five to date. She tries to keep the messages of her books' light-hearted and humorous, and sometimes a little bizarre, but always with lots of twists and turns and surprising conclusions.

She is a member of the Gulf Coast Chapter of Romance Writers of America, the Gulf Coast Writers Association and the Camellia Sisters.

Her first published novel, Fantastic Stranger, was issued in September 2003 through Universe, an Internet publishing company. It is the story of a middle-aged woman, Abby Henderson, who while walking early one morning on the beachfront of her Gulf Coast town (Bay St. Louis) runs into someone from her past, a rich and famous musician. In the late 1960s, she spent one evening in the French Quarter of New Orleans with the British rock star.

Abby tries for over 30 years to bury the secret of that unfortunate but thrilling encounter, her one frivolous indiscretion. You see, she was also in love with her college sweetheart at the time. They married shortly afterwards, and she was never really sure who fathered her twin sons.

From the moment Rick Clayton mysteriously appears back into her life until the end of the story, bits and pieces of Abby's past are uncovered to upset and complicate her present and threaten her family and friends.

Heitzmann is currently working on her next novel, No More Tears in Heaven, which should be published this summer.

The program is open to the public. Lunch is available for those who wish to purchase for $5 cash. Advance reservations must be made for lunch.

D'head Performing Arts Society, Coast Electric present Ronnie Kole Trio

Impresario, composer, celebrity pianist - Ronnie Kole has been an integral part of the New Orleans music scene for decades. He has performed in over 600 cities world-wide, delighting a wide variety of audiences including His Holiness Pope John Paul, II and five presidents of the United States.

Kole has appeared at Carnegie Hall and entertains regularly at New Orleans' two most prestigious festivals: the Jazz and Heritage Festival and the French Quarter Festival.

From the brilliance of Gershwin and Porter to the contemporary music of Andrew Lloyd Webber, the showmanship and talents of Ronnie Kole will transport you into the realm of a musical miracle.

In addition to his music,

Four students honored as top scholars at PRCC

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Four Pearl River Community College students were recently selected to the 2004 All-Mississippi Academic Team.

The All-Mississippi Academic Team recognizes the scholarly achievements and leadership accomplishments of students enrolled in community, technical and junior colleges across the state of Mississippi.

Stephen Rawls, a sophomore engineering major from Poplarville, was named to the first team and received a $1,000 scholarship.

Amanda Lovelace, a sophomore English and public relations major from Kiln, and Heather Ball of Poplarville and Courtney Matthews of Laurel, sophomore students in the Dental Hygiene Department at the Forrest County Center, were named to the second team. All four plan to graduate from PRCC this spring.

Rawls, a Poplarville High graduate, has a 4.0 grade-point average and plans to further his education at Ole Miss. He was president of the freshman class, secretary of the Student Government Association, performs in the RiverRoad show choir, and a member of Who's Who in American Community and Junior Colleges. His other honors include the president's list for fall 2002 and spring

2003, and freshman class favorite in spring 2003.

"The time I have spent at Pearl River Community College has had a great impact on my life through the organizations and clubs that I have been a part of over the past year," said Rawls. "I have increased my social skills and have put my leadership skills to the test."

Lovelace, a Hancock High School graduate, has a 3.8 GPA and plans to further her education at the University of Southern Mississippi. She is a tutor in Student Support Services, devoting some 13 hours a week to helping other PRCC students with academic studies. She is also a member of the Students Offering Support group on campus, a participant in the campus, Relay for Life program, and a recipient of the American Legion Post 77 scholarship.

"Originally, I had planned to spend only one year at the community college level," said Lovelace. "After a single semester, I knew I had found my home. My communications professor read our college mission statement that said that Pearl River upheld the tradition of offering quality education to every student who possessed the want to learn."

"Knowing that I was surrounded by educators and students enhanced by this tradition, I continued attending Pearl River. Tradition led me here, tradition keeps me here, and tradition molds my future."

Ball, a graduate of Poplarville High, has a 3.64 GPA. She serves as president of the Student American Dental Hygienists Association at PRCC.

She is also involved in the "Tobacco Quit Program" for PRCC students, which is sponsored by PRCC in conjunction with the Partnership for a Healthy Mississippi. She and her husband, David, have a 5-year-old daughter, Caleigh.

She is also a recipient of the Rural Health Scholarship and the Navoy Memorial Scholarship.

"Pearl River Community College is an affordable way to receive a top-dollar education," said Ball. "Many of my family members are graduates of this school. Also, the small class sizes allow more time for the instructor to work with each student on an individual basis."

Matthews, a graduate of West Jones High School, has a 3.9 GPA. She is a member of SADHA, a participant in Baptist Student Union activities, tutors fellow students, and a member of Who's Who in American Community and Junior Colleges.

"My decision to attend a community college was based on many factors," said Matthews.

"First, I was attracted to smaller classes offered. I also believe that attending a community college prior to entering a university helps build a strong foundation of learning and studying that helps to make the transition smoother and less overwhelming."

"Community colleges provide good quality education at a more affordable price. My decision to attend PRCC has been rewarding, and I believe I will continue to see the benefits as I work toward my educational goals."

Phi Theta Kappa advisors at PRCC are Psychology instructor Ginny Miller, English instructor Justin Williamson, Math instructor Jacqueline Runnels and Dental Hygiene Department Chairman Stan Hill.

Jutta's Wedding Bells

There is a little shop located at 209-1/2 Main Street in Bay St. Louis called Jutta's Wedding Bells. At first glance the shop may seem small but it becomes apparent as you walk through the door it is filled wall to wall with silk flower creations. The owner Jutta Bordelon had filled the shop with her dreams along with some help from her mother, Christa Stephan who hand crochets everything from bride money bags to beautiful replica wedding cakes. This shop offers a full service of beautiful creations to make every detail of your wedding day special.

The silk flowers can be custom designed to your own personal desires or she offers a full line of silk rentals, for every budget, with packages starting as low as $375.00 which includes delivery and set up. They offer a full decorating service also. But this shop is not just for weddings, they handle all parties. You can pick up your phone and dial 466-0100 and they will deliver a beautiful silk basket for any occasion. Deliveries are also made to hospitals and cemeteries, with free delivery for the Bay/Waveland area. Come in and see the difference.

AMOS, THE PROPHET

THE NAME AMOS MEANS A BURDEN, OR A BURDEN BEARER. THIS PROPHET FROM TEKOA, IN THE TERRITORY OF JUDAH, WAS A MAN OF HUMBLE BIRTH. AS A HERDSMAN, HE DOUBTLESS SPENT MUCH OF HIS LIFE IN THE WILDERNESS THAT EXTENDED FROM THE VILLAGE OF TEKOA ALL THE WAY TO THE DEAD SEA. WHEN NOT ENGAGED AS A HERDSMAN, HE FOUND OTHER EMPLOYMENT AS A DRESSER OF SYCAMORE TREES, PRUNING THE FOLIAGE AND PICKING ITS FRUIT FOR PACKING. (AMOS 1:1, 7:14, 15) FROM THE KNOWLEDGE THAT AMOS DISPLAYS WITH DISTANT PLACES AND EVENTS, IT IS EVIDENT THAT HE WAS USED TO HARD WORK, IN MANY CATEGORIES SUCH AS DRIVING SHEEP AND CARRYING HIDES AND WOOL AS FAR AS DISTANT EGYPT AND DAMASCUS. (AMOS 6:1) ALTHOUGH A MAN OF JUDAH, HE WAS CALLED UPON TO PROPHESY IN THE NORTHERN KINGDOM OF ISRAEL. HE APPEARED AT BETHEL, WHERE THE TEMPLE HAD WITHIN IT ONE OF THE GOLDEN CALVES SET UP BY JEROBOAM (AMOS 8:14). AMOS SPOKE WITH SUCH BOLDNESS AGAINST THE SINS OF THE KING AND THE PEOPLE THAT HE IMMEDIATELY MADE A GREAT NAME FOR HIMSELF.

...AND WITH GREAT COURAGE
BERATING THE HIGH-BORN
AND THE KING, HIMSELF, WHEN EVER IT WAS APPARENT THAT THEIR WAYS HAD BECOME SINFUL
AND THEY WERE LEADING THE
PEOPLE AWAY FROM THE LORD
AND INTO THE PATHS OF FOLLY AND WICKEDNESS!

Do you side with bullies?

Putting us in mind of ancient Rome where the Colosseum stood for centuries as the prototype of blood-thirsty entertainment, a recent local rage has been wild hog dog-baiting. A pack of dogs is pitted against a solitary wild boar, and, naturally, the outcome is a fatally torn, tortured animal.

How ridiculous! Let's put the whole thing in perspective. After all, what chance does a lonely hog have surrounded by a pack of flesh-rendering, blood-thirsty dogs? An even contest would pit one dog against one boar.

Perhaps we should engage in a laughter by turning the tables completely.

Yes, let us put one dog in an area surrounded by a pack of wild boars, and we'll see how brave and loud that lonely dog is. The "brave" pack illusion would be stood on its head and exposed for the bullies packs really are.

Adding gross insult to injury, some local hog dog-baiting proponents are making the ridiculous statements: "It's all part of our local culture. It's a time-honored tradition. It's just pure adult entertainment."

Now we realize culture has many nuances, customs and interpretations. But how can bloody cruelty be civilized by any stretch of the imagination?

And how can anyone conclude that one can be an avid fan of animal blood letting in a vacuum; that is, without any correlation to hurting humans?

It is sadly distressing to hear people appealing to their distorted idea of culture in defense of their inhumane, blood-thirsty tastes in so-called gaming and entertainment. Anything to rationalize the gory, the cruel, the stupid.

So what else is new? This whole wild hog dog-baiting thing is no more than an outgrowth of cock fighting which, incidentally, is also rationalized by an appeal to the local culture of fanatics who pursue the so-called game.

A local legislator mouthed the party line of fanatics who are hooked on the blood letting in gamecock fights and hog dog-baiting:

"It is one of those sports in which those who are not interested need not participate."

However, let those who appreciate the sport be free to participate!

Fortunately, ignoring the ignorance and stupidity of the appeal to local culture, legislators had enough common sense and intestinal fortitude to pass resounding laws against setting up animal gladiators and betting on them.

If that is culture, folks, God deliver us from culture. Unhappily, it is surely nothing new in our so-styled culture of

Reflections on Life
by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

the New Millennium, which does not have a shadow of difference from that of the century and millennium past.

Yes, it is the same culture of violence, sex and legal or illegal drugs which possesses the minds of most of our citizens, even many of the most reclusive and conservative. This is nothing but a carryover from the last century.

Baiting gamecocks against one another mano a mano, and baiting packs of bloodthirsty dogs against wild boars are gross, disgusting symptoms of much deeper problems embedded in the "culture," minds and very souls of fanatics a la "bread and circus" spectators at the old Roman Colosseum. And don't forget that the mighty Roman empire was destroyed from within, imploding upon itself by its corrupt morals, unbridled gluttony, lack of value and respect for life, and a frightening cruelty to humans and beasts alike which overflowed in the never-ending blood orgies in the Colosseum.

I would not even like to be a fly on the wall of a home in which one or more family member is an avid follower and participant in blood letting by animal gladiators. Far worse would I dread being a member of such a family.

Can you imagine a person with so strong a taste for blood claiming to be at the same time sensitive to other people, gentle and considerate in dealing with others, alert to the physical, emotional and spiritual needs of others?

It sounds like nothing more than a contradiction in attitude and tastes.

Further, we have the childhood history of many serial killers who got their jollies out of torturing animals of various species and descriptions. So it seems they simply graduated to bloodier, more human targets as they aged.

Personally, in an attempt to feel what other people would feel, I can only imagine how stressful and distressing it must feel to live virtually under house arrest in the steady company of one or more lovers of blood letting.

In a family, there is no hiding place and seldom anywhere to run.

Without feeling impelled to go to the ridiculous, irrational extremes of such animal rights advocates as PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals), we nevertheless must give God the Creator due respect by giving respect and showing humanness for the creatures God has fashioned.

While Jesus, a true Jew, ate lamb at Passover time and fish at other times, as we read in the gospels, we know from his intimate teachings that we, just as God does, should care even for the very lilies of the field. (Matthew 6)

Scripture Says . . .

By Ed Young

Praise the Lord -- That's what he wants

Worship and praise is what our Heavenly Father desires. There is something spiritually deep about praising the Lord. God receives this form of worship from His children knowing they are saying, we love you Lord.

Dear Reader, if you have ever been in a worship service where thy Holy Spirit is moving, wonderful things begin to take place. There is a manifestation of the things of God that's hard to explain.

The angels know this, for there are angelic beings around the throne of God praising Him continually.

This wonderful heavenly Father of ours shares in the worship and praising of Him. For He reflects back to us His feelings and love for His children.

The praise service is a much needed experience in the Christian walk.

Needs are fulfilled as the Holy Spirit comforts and ministers to the people's concerns.

Gratitude of the goodness of God is felt when the church worships the Lord.

The very breath we take of life, is freely given. The many needs are met with assurance. The promises are made clearer to one's understanding. There is an uplifting spirit that makes itself known. Heaven comes down and glory fills the church.

Sing unto the Lord; rejoice with music and praise. Lift your hands unto the King of Kings. Behold His beauty.

May God be gracious to us and bless us, and make His face to shine upon us; that thy way may be known upon earth, that thy saving power among all nations. Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee. Psalms 67: 1, 3.

The "Word" for the Week
Razor sharp, pinpoint accuracy

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

The Bible may be on the top of the bestseller list but it remains a closed book to multitudes. Why?

Several reasons.

The fact of the matter is that many people simply cannot read. So the Bible, along with other books, is closed to them. Then, too, many people have no interest in spiritual things and so they never look at the Bible.

But when some people do get into the Bible, they discover that the Bible speaks to their inner most thoughts and intentions. "For the word of God is living and active and sharper than any two edged sword, and piercing as far as the division of soul and spirit, of both joints and marrow, and is able to judge the thoughts and intentions of the heart" (Hebrews 4:12). The very fact that the Bible can cut deeply into our souls actually scares a lot of people. You see, fallen human nature thinks it is a sin to get caught. When the house banking scandal was breaking, many congressmen denied any part in it. Cashing bad checks was not a problem. Getting caught was! But when the Bible judges our thoughts and intentions, it is not setting us up for this kind of fall! The Bible is pointing out that our sin is the real problem. Getting caught is minor. God already knows the thoughts of our hearts. When we grasp the real nature of our thoughts and intentions, we see our need of the Savior, Jesus Christ. So when the Bible cuts deeply, it is for the purpose of exposing us to ourselves and showing us our real need of forgiveness. Then, when we see our need of Jesus Christ we are more likely to flee to Him for salvation from sin!

Local student earns $12K scholarship

Rachel Wright, a senior at Our Lady Academy, has been awarded a $12,000 Dean's Scholarship to attend the University of Mobile.

The Dean's Scholarship is awarded in recognition of the deans of the College of Arts and Sciences and the schools of Business, Education, Nursing and Religion. The scholarship recognizes individuals who exhibit the potential to develop academically and as leaders in their career, family, church and community. The award is valued at $3,000 per year (awarded over eight consecutive semesters) and is renewable provided the recipient maintains a full-time student status of 15 hours per semester and a 2.50 grade point average. The scholarship includes a $1,000 room-and-board grant, dependent upon living in the residence halls.

Celebrity Scoop

Checking in with Alison Elliott

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Alison Elliott doesn't mind giving her career a new wrinkle. "The Spitfire Grill" actress does that figuratively and literally in "A Wrinkle in Time," a lavish new three-hour ABC version of Madeleine L'Engle's popular children's book airing Monday, May 10.

Elliott plays Mrs. Who, one of three fanciful ladies who lead a trio of youngsters - portrayed by Gregory Smith ("Everwood"), David Dorfman ("The Ring") and Katie Stuart - to another planet in search of a missing man. Alfre Woodard and Kate Nelligan also star as the other two guides, Mrs. Whatsit and Mrs. Which.

"A Wrinkle in Time" has had other intended air dates spanning several TV seasons. "The book took 20 or 30 years to be made into a movie, so I guess a couple of years in post-production is not too far off the mark," Elliott reasons. "Mrs. Who just jumped off the page to me. I had to re-read the script, because I was astounded I was being offered the part."

Elliott likens Mrs. Who to poet Edna St. Vincent Millay, with the addition of the hairstyle of "somebody who fell asleep on an asteroid. She speaks in quotes; she has neither the confidence nor the ego to speak her own words, and she has great reverence for words already used beautifully. She's just a charming creature."

Still, "A Wrinkle in Time" has darker elements, since it ultimately involves an entire race held captive by a mysterious force. Elliott doesn't mind: "I like the lumps and bumps of people. Grown-up projects involve the struggles people have, but I think kids deserve to see the struggles of people, too. It shouldn't be just a gleaming crystal ball."

Born: May 19, 1970, in San Francisco.

Mom proves TLC beats DNA in 'My Flesh and Blood'

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

"My Flesh and Blood," a disturbing HBO documentary, airing Sunday, May 9, reveals an unspoken side of motherhood.

Susan Tom, a divorced mother of two biological sons in Fairfield, Calif., has adopted 11 special-needs children over the years. That generic term does not begin to explain the children's life-threatening problems that birth parents gave up on. Tom saved them.

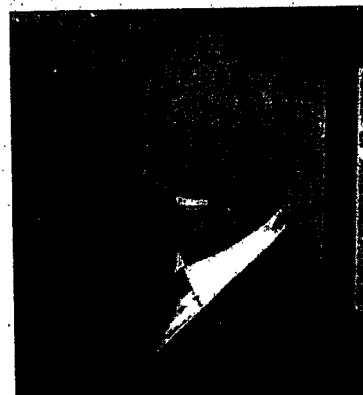

This is not easy watching. It opens with Joe, who had cystic fibrosis, bipolar disorder and was a hellion. He talks about killing his sisters, and one of his epiphanies is that he is a racist.

Very few people could tolerate Joe's outbursts while caring for, among others, two girls born without legs, one girl severely burned as a baby and a boy with a horrific skin disease.

Though the documentary, shot over a year, chronicles a most unusual mom, it is not a great film. It never really explains why Tom does this, or how she lives aside from the children's SSI checks. Sometimes, the film feels intrusive, such as showing the girls crying or Anthony, 19, being bathed.

Anthony suffers from a painful degenerative disorder that causes his skin to fall off easily. He is bandaged, is missing limbs, uses a wheelchair and despite all of this is in good spirits.

Not all of the children are happy. Margaret, 19, struggles with the family's mountain of laundry, starting college and feels as if she has no life of her own. She is in tears a couple of times in the film.

TV's favorite shrink still chasing love in NBC's 'Frasier' finale

By John Crook
© Zap2it

Has Dr. Frasier Crane found true love at last?

That question lies at the heart of the matter as "Frasier" ends its long NBC run on Thursday, May 13, with a special hour-long episode entitled "Goodbye, Seattle."

It doesn't require assistance from the "wee bit psychic" Daphne Moon to predict some of the likely events in the episode, given that Daphne and Niles (Jane Leeves, David Hyde Pierce) are eagerly awaiting the birth of their first child, while dad Martin (John Mahoney) is about to tie the knot with girlfriend Ronee Lawrence (Wendie Malick).

"We're trying to resolve those (stories) with a twist or two that you may not see coming," hints Joe Keenan, who co-wrote the finale with fellow executive producer Christopher Lloyd.

Yet the main focus is the future (if any) of Frasier's (Kelsey Grammer) relationship with Charlotte (Laura Linney), his radiant lady love who is, alas, due to leave Seattle and move back to Chicago in a few days.

"Like the series as a whole, the tone of the finale swings from wildly silly farce - there's a monkey in there somewhere, I can tell you that," Keenan reveals, "to very tearful and emotional moments."

Will the good doctor follow Charlotte to the Windy City, or continue his search for love in Seattle? None of the writers or the actors is telling, but Grammer says the once-maddening and pretentious Frasier has grown into a complex, caring man who honestly deserves another chance at true love.

"He's a terrific guy," Grammer says of the TV character he has played for 20 years, the first nine on "Cheers."

"(Frasier has) mellowed through these years, (so) he's a little bit easier to get along with. That may be something that we all arrive at in life. And that makes the show relevant: He's a person that has gone through the same nonsense we all go through."

"I think all of (our characters) have grown," Pierce says, agreeing with his TV sibling. "The seeds of that growth were there in the pilot. ... Every relationship (in the show) is complicated, both by the actors and the writers, so that even though Frasier and Niles were fiercely competitive and jealous (in the first season), they also loved each other. And each one of the relationships had that complexity to it."

"Frasier," which would set an Emmy record by winning consecutive trophies as best comedy series its first five years on the air, was an instant hit when it premiered in 1993, with its title character's life in disrepair. Reeling from a painful divorce in Boston (see "Cheers"), Frasier returned to his Seattle hometown and reluctantly took in his disabled and estranged father (Mahoney), a retired cop. While hilarious, those early episodes also set the tone for the entire series, digging fearlessly into both the love and pain of father-son relationships.

Keenan, a novelist and playwright who joined the series in its second season, says he still remembers how stinging bold "Frasier" seemed when he saw those first-season episodes.

"Frasier and Martin's relationship was extremely strained and hostile, ... and I thought, 'Wow, that's really a harsh relationship he has with his dad there,' but it gave such a distance for the characters to go," Keenan says. "And I think in closing we kind of want to have a sense of how full-circle they've all come."

Kelsey Grammer, who has portrayed pompous psychologist Frasier Crane since 1984 on "Cheers," does so for the last time Thursday as NBC airs the final episode of "Frasier."

"When the show started, Niles was trapped in a deeply unhappy marriage. Now, here he is with the woman of his dreams and a child."

The five core cast members - which also include Peri Gilpin as Frasier's radio producer, Roz Doyle - were choking up as early as last January, when they met with a gathering of TV critics to talk about closing this meaningful chapter in their lives, at least for now.

"I'm going to miss everyone just terribly," Leeves admits. "I thought I came to terms with it when I got pregnant (in real life earlier this season) because, you know, I had something else to deal with. Now that I'm not pregnant, I'm like: 'Now what?'"

Suave 'Alias' bad guy an Oregon native

Q Please tell me about the very sexy actor who plays Julian Sark on "Alias." He is wonderful. -Sue Brischler, Wilmington, N.C.

A The lanky blond actor born David Anders Holt (he uses his middle name as his professional surname today) hails from Grants Pass, Ore., where he grew up with his parents, brothers Jason and Arik and sister Malli.

Anders began acting as a young boy in school plays and conservatories, graduating to starring roles in "Our Town" and "My Fair Lady" by the end of high school. He was accepted to a prestigious Pasadena, Calif., theater school, but he decided instead to make a leap directly into show business, moving to Los Angeles in 1999.

After a relatively barren year, Anders switched to a more supportive agent and soon thereafter landed his role as Mr. Sark, a guest spot that quickly morphed into regular work. Now 23,

David Anders

Anders continues to do theater work with West Coast companies whenever his schedule permits.

Q What can you tell me about Sissel? I recently saw her on a PBS concert and, while I am totally deaf, I really enjoyed watching her and reading the closed-captioned lyrics. And who sang "Bridge Over Troubled Water" with her? -"Bounce212" via e-mail.

A A native of Bergen, Norway, singer Sissel Kyrkjebø, 34, was first noticed by many U.S. audiences in 1994, when she sang the Winter Olympic Anthem during the opening ceremonies in Lillehammer, Norway. Closer to home, however, she's been a star since she was 17, with the 1986 release of her first album, "Sissel."

It also didn't hurt when composer James Horner tapped the singer to be a part of his soundtrack to a little 1997 film called "Titanic." On a personal note, in 1993 Kyrkjebø married Danish entertainer Eddie Skoller. Today they have two daughters, Ingrid, 8, and Sarah, 4.

I'm assuming the PBS pledge concert your local affiliate carried is the one that originally aired in the States last year, in which case, that was British tenor Russell Watson in the "Bridge Over Troubled Water" duet.

Dick Van Dyke trips gracefully back into the living room

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

One of television's most beloved shows is staging a reunion 38 years after going off the air. But rather than rely on the reunion-show formula of clips and reminiscences, actors from "The Dick Van Dyke Show" will reprise their old roles.

"CBS has been asking me for years to do this," creator Carl Reiner says. "I call this 'one revisited' because we revisit the people, not the actors."

"The Dick Van Dyke Show Revisited," airing Tuesday, May 11, updates viewers on where the Petries and their friends are today.

The cast reassembled last year when the sitcom won the TV Land Legend Award, and Reiner initially thought there could be no second chapter because several original cast members - Richard Deacon (Mel Cooley), Morey Amsterdam (Buddy Sorrell), Jerry Paris (Jerry Helper) and director Sheldon Leonard - had died. Yet they talked about working together again, and Reiner devised a plot.

The script, Reiner says, "fell out of me in about four days."

The original black-and-white series revolved around a young, handsome couple, Rob and Laura Petrie (Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore), who lived in New Rochelle, N.Y., with their son, Richie (Larry Mathews).

Rob commuted to Manhattan, where he was head comedy writer for "The Alan Brady Show," working with smart aleck Buddy and husband-hunting Sally (Rose Marie). Brady (Reiner) was their lunatic boss.

Today, the retired Rob tinkers on his computer. Laura has a ballet studio in their Manhattan apartment, where she teaches children, including their granddaughter.

Brady calls Rob and Sally, offering a lot of money to write his eulogy. He is not dying or even sick. Brady, ever the conniving egotist, wants to make sure the right lies are said about him, and he knows Sally and Rob could do the job. So what if he hasn't spoken to them in 40 years?

"He created a wonderful life for Laura," Moore says of Reiner. "She teaches youngsters in a small studio in the apartment with Rob, and it is something she does with great devotion."

Laura, however, dearly wants a studio outside the home, and the generous fee from writing the eulogy would foot the bill. "The studio she has her eye on is on Broadway," Moore says gleefully. She breaks into full Laura warble and trills. "Oh Roob, I will be on Broadway."

Rob is happy just playing on his computer, which is also how Van Dyke likes to spend his spare time. Like his co-stars, Van Dyke had a marvelous time making this show. "We all said they should have filmed the rehearsals," he says. "We just laughed and laughed until we were hysterical."

"I was excited about just the concept," Moore says. "Then I saw the script, I became even more excited. The doing of it was the most fun any of us have had in years. I can't help but feel unless there is a covey of gremlins in the editing room determined to ruin it, this will be one of the best reunion shows ever."

Though Reiner weaves a perfectly plausible reason for the characters to gather, the special is, at its heart, a clip show. It's fun to see the re-created living room where so much of the show took place. Van Dyke sounds amazed when he says, "They did a beautiful job, and found a couple of pieces of the furniture and some of the paintings."

The oddest part is having Ray Romano stand in that living room doing the introduction, given his only connection is he watched the show as a child.

But what makes this show are the clips culled from the 158 episodes of one of the best sitcoms to grace a screen. Among them: Rob convinced they took home the wrong baby from the hospital; Rob in a body bandage after spraining his entire body; and Rob tumbling and falling. The show established Van Dyke as a brilliant physical comedian, but despite his many pratfalls, he says he never hurt himself.

There's also Laura, with a two-tone blond/brunette head of hair, as well as her stammering an apology to Brady after blurting out, on national television, that he is really bald.

There are song-and-dance numbers, which are creaky by today's standards, but the comedy stands the test of time.

Reiner made sure that scripts never had topical references or slang. "I was very aware that we had something special," he says, adding that he wanted future audiences to be able to relate to it. Still, "we didn't know that it would last 40 years," Reiner says.

The fun, of course, is in seeing these characters again. Moore, looking lithe in leotards, puts women a fraction of her age to shame. Jerry Van Dyke, CBS' "The Dick Van Dyke Show Revisited" on Tuesday stars Carl Reiner, Jerry Van Dyke, Ann Morgan Guilbert, Larry Mathews, Mary Tyler Moore, Dick Van Dyke and Rose Marie (clockwise from top left).

Dick's brother, returns as his goofy on-screen brother, Stacey, who starts dating widowed neighbor Millie (Ann Morgan Guilbert).

What comes across is how much these actors genuinely enjoy one another.

"I never laughed so much working in my life," Marie says. That's saying a lot, considering she started working at 3, and differing accounts of her age begin at 80.

Marie recalls that Jerry Van Dyke was initially awful. "The Catskills were Broadway compared to what he was playing," she says. "He was working gin joints." She lauds his performance on the reunion show.

In the Spotlight

Carol Burnett still so glad we had this time together

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

Decades before scripts became superfluous with the advent of reality TV, Carol Burnett and her band of comics pulled off an unscripted session that set the tone for the longest-running comedy-variety show in television history.

"The Carol Burnett Show" opened with a question-and-answer segment, and the best of those are in CBS' "The Carol Burnett Show: Let's Bump Up the Lights" Wednesday, May 12.

Before Burnett, Harvey Korman, Tim Conway, Vicki Lawrence and Lyle Waggoner performed their skits, Burnett had the house lights turned up, and the audience asked questions. Since the show went into reruns, most of those sessions have not been seen.

Burnett recalls that one of the funniest and most embarrassing moments came "when someone asked whether or not I had a sex change, and the very next question was, 'Did you?'" She lets loose with a great laugh, and remembers another favorite.

"One woman got up, and she kind of looked like Bea Arthur on 'Maude,' and she said, 'You know, I sing.' And I said,

'Oh, you do? Come on up!' She came up on stage and she really took the stage, and I said, 'What do you want to sing?' She turned to the band and said, 'You Made Me Love You' in the key of G.' And she was hysterical."

Burnett sang with her. "And at the end we petered out because I had a different thought on how it should end," Burnett says. "She stopped and looked at me and said, 'You screwed up.'"

For years, comedians joked with studio audiences before a show, priming them to be in the mood to laugh. When the show began its 11-year run in 1967, a producer asked Burnett to give it a shot. "Oh, my God. I don't think the audience will believe this is off the cuff," she says, vividly recalling her jitters.

Burnett is not sure if she was the first headliner to do this, but television authority Tim Brooks, co-author of "The Complete Directory to Prime Time Network and Cable TV Shows 1946-Present," is. Naturally, there were talk shows, but nothing along the lines of the star interacting with the audience, he says. "It was a very endearing and humanizing factor," Brooks says.

It was also a scary one to those on stage, says Lawrence. "I used to be petrified going out during the questions and answers because you are on your own and have to wing it."

For Waggoner that often meant puckering up, as women wanted to buss the resident hunk. "He came out one night with a table and two chairs and a candle, and he played a romantic scene with her (a woman from the audience), and we didn't know he was going to do that," Burnett says.

Keeping with the unscripted theme, Burnett says of the special, "We just talk with each other. You never know what Conway or anyone else will come up with."

Burnett does not expect this special to trump her 2001 "The Carol Burnett Show: Showstoppers," CBS' top ratings magnet in that time slot for a non-sports show in a decade. She did not want to remine that material. "We had chosen the funniest ones, so doing it again would be the second funniest," she says. "This is at least more original."

"If we do half as well as that one did, I will still be totally surprised," Burnett says. "I just hope the audience has a good belly laugh or two. That's a very healing thing, and you can forget your troubles for a minute or two."

Carol Burnett stars in CBS' "The Carol Burnett Show: Let's Bump Up the Lights" Wednesday. Her co-stars show clips from the question and answer segment from the variety and comedy show that lasted 11 seasons.

Kellerman prepares to shut 'em down as 'I, Max' starts up

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

It's something every interviewer would love to do - press a button and render silent someone who is full of it, long-winded or boring.

Max Kellerman, the irrepressible host of Fox Sports Net's new sports-talk entry, "I, Max," premiering Monday, May 10, actually gets to do it for a living. In fact, he is so fond of the tactic he'd love to see it employed on other talk shows as well.

"It's so fun - it's more fun than it looks," says Kellerman of what has become known as "shutting people down," a practice originated on his previous ESPN talker, "Around the Horn."

"It's so great. It's something that I'd love to see on political shows. You have these guests come on, and they're staying on message: 'So yeah, let's talk about the second phase of this tax cut. Won't this blah blah blah blah' 'Well, what I ...' 'But what I really want to say is, 'No, that's not the question. I don't care about what you really want to say. I want you to answer the question.' And that would be tremendous. Even just when people are talking over each other, it would be just great in terms of directing traffic."

Traffic cop is but one duty he will have in his new vehicle, which was conceived as a forum for the Bronx-born, Columbia-educated Kellerman to talk about the hot sports issues of the day. Joining him as a sidekick will be Bill Wolff, who is also the executive producer. There will be a viewer interactive segment as well, although what that will entail had not yet been finalized at press time.

Guests will run the gamut from the newsmakers of the day to sportswriters or even just someone who has something interesting to say. Given the choice, the loquacious Kellerman would eschew big names for good talk. "If something happens with the Lakers and you can talk to Kobe Bryant, I guess you do," he says. "But how much is Kobe Bryant actually going to say? But if you talk to (writer) Charley Rosen, you know Charley Rosen is going to say a whole lot. He's a credible, smart and controversial source. It's going to be much better television than an athlete who's actually a newsmaker but is really just talking to you in cliches. There's a certain sexiness in getting the newsmaker himself or herself on. But that's not always the way to go."

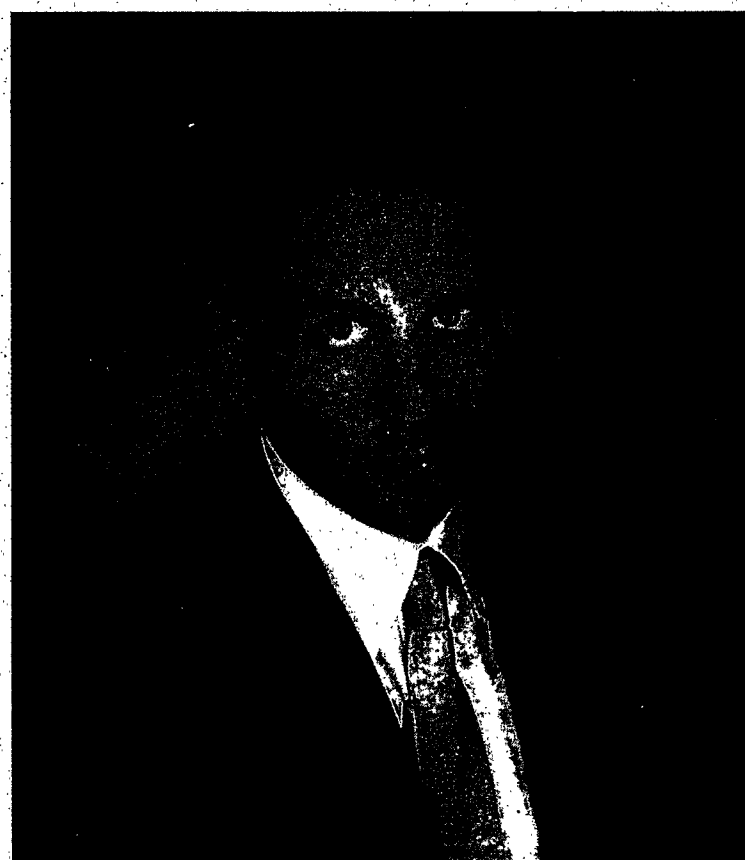

Whoever comes on the show will be given the appropriate respect, Kellerman says, but they better not try to dodge the question, lest they get shut down. "If you're conducting an interview," Kellerman says, "and you ask someone a question and they answer with a cliché, you know, the interview segment is a no-cliché zone. So you will have this device used on you if you answer in a cliché because it's a no-cliché zone. What can I do? You tied my hands."

Such talk of "zones" smacks of another moderator in the employ of Fox Broadcasting. As it turns out, Kellerman is an admirer of Bill O'Reilly's ("The O'Reilly Factor") style. "Look, there's a reason O'Reilly has a great show, whether you agree with his politics or not, is 1) because he's a tremendous TV guy, and 2) because that show is produced extremely well - smart and fast. By the way, same thing with Shepard Smith's show. It is blazing fast. The hour flies by, like, 'Where did it go?' And a lot of those producers were fans of 'Around the Horn,' and I've met them since I've joined the Fox family. And likewise, we were fans of theirs from a TV production standpoint because you recognize certain similarities. They keep it moving."

Which is what Kellerman feels is the key to engaging television. "I'm 30 years old," he says. "My generation grew up on 'Sesame Street.' 'Sesame Street' is all about quick cuts. Quick cuts, and they didn't come up with this out of the ether. They had test groups in Massachusetts. They were testing little kids. What sticks with these kids? What do these kids remember? And they found that the most effective way, one of the formats was quick cuts."

"That's the way we're programmed as young kids," he continues, "and then because we grew up on that, it just reinforced it. So MTV was just an extension of that. And 'Around the Horn' was an extension of MTV. You want to keep it moving. You want to make it fast, funny and smart."

"MLB Baseball" Sunday, May 9 (ESPN, 8 p.m. ET): Two clubs who got off to slow starts battle when the Philadelphia Phillies visit the Arizona Diamondbacks. The NL East favorite Phillies began 1-6, their worst start since 1987, prompting some to think manager Larry Bowa was on the outs. Bowa can swap sob stories with his counterpart, Bob Brenly, who guided the D'backs to a 2-6 start. New cleanup hitter Richie Sexson has performed well, even with little lineup protection that allows him to see good pitches.

"Horse Racing" Saturday, May 15 (NBC, 5 p.m. ET): The second leg in the Triple Crown series is run for the 129th time at the Preakness Stakes, from Pimlico Race Course in Baltimore. With the Kentucky Derby now two weeks in the past, the race for the top 3-year-old is shaping up. Tom Hammond, Charlsie Cantey and Mike Battaglia are among the commentators.

"NASCAR Racing" Saturday, May 15 (FX, 7 p.m. ET): Though his car was running well, Joe Nemechek probably was thankful last year's Pontiac 400 was shortened by rain. It allowed him to avoid any more blunders that could have threatened his first win since 2001. Nemechek was forced to the back of the pack after missing the pit row entrance during a caution, but he valiantly fought his way back and actually led the final 64 laps. Tonight's Chevy American Revolution takes place in Richmond, Va.

Questions:

- 1) Where did the name "Preakness" originate?
- 2) What is the race's current distance?
- 3) From 1894 to 1909, the Preakness was not held at Pimlico Race Course. Where was it held?
- 4) What horse won the inaugural Preakness in 1873?

- 5) What jockey holds the record for most Preakness victories?
- 6) What trainer has saddled the most Preakness winners?
- 7) Since 1925, what horse has recorded the fastest time in the Preakness?
- 8) What horse has the slowest winning time, post-1925?

Answers:

- 1) It evolved from the name a tribe of New Jersey American Indians gave their area (Pra-qua-les, meaning quail woods) to the moniker of a race

- horse that won the Dinner Party Stakes at Pimlico's opening in 1870.
- 2) 1 3/16 miles, its length since 1925.
- 3) Gravesend race track in Brooklyn, N.Y.
- 4) Survivor, by a record 10 lengths.
- 5) Eddie Arcaro, with six.
- 6) Robert W. Walden, with seven.
- 7) Both Tank's Prospect (1985) and Louis Quatorze (1996) ran the race in 1:53 2/5.
- 8) Citation, with a winning time of 2:02 2/5 in 1948.

Sunday

8:05 a.m. on AMC

Movie: Cheaper by the Dozen

Youngsters irritated by having to share living quarters with a sibling will gain a sense of perspective from this 1950 classic, the fact-based tale of an efficiency expert, a psychologist and their 12 — count 'em, 12 — children. Small children may be upset by the death of one family member toward the end, but the film's many comic moments will leave a bigger impression on older kids. Clifton Webb, Jeanne Crain and Myrna Loy star.

Monday

7 a.m. on TBS

Movie: My Stepmother Is an Alien

Alyson Hannigan ("Buffy the Vampire Slayer") stars as teenager Jessie, whose father (Dan Aykroyd) falls for an alien (Kim Basinger). Celeste (Basinger) is sent to Earth on a mission and while there, she meets and loses her heart to a bumbling earthling. Can true love exist across the galaxy? Jon Lovitz, Seth Green and Juliette Lewis co-star in this 1988 extraterrestrial comedy.

9:15 a.m. on HBO

Movie: The Secret Garden

Kate Maberly stars as Mary Lennox, the orphaned British girl sent to live with her reclusive uncle in this 1993 version of the Frances Hodgson Burnett story. When Mary arrives at her uncle's vast estate, she is befriended by a local boy (Andrew Knott) who leads her to a decaying garden. Mostly ignored by her guardian, Mary finds purpose in bringing the flowers back to life and helping her cousin, who has been hidden away by his overprotective father.

Wednesday

6:45 a.m. on HBO

Movie: Stuart Little 2

Michael J. Fox returns to give voice to the mouse adopted by a human family in this charming 2002 sequel. Stuart befriends a little bird (voice of Melanie Griffith) who, unbeknownst to him, is being forced to work for the sinister Falcon (voice of James Woods). When his new friend vanishes, he believes she's been abducted and sets out to rescue her. Hugh Laurie and Geena Davis also star.

Saturday

7 a.m. on TBS

Movie: Parenthood

Steve Martin stars as a beleaguered family man in this 1989 movie directed by Ron Howard. He and his wife (Mary Steenburgen) must deal with a nervous child, "perfect" neighbors, elderly parents and crazy siblings.

9 a.m. on HALL

Movie: Charley and the Angel

Much like Dickens' story "A Christmas Carol," this 1973 Disney family film features a "what if" plot. Fred MacMurray stars as Charley, a sour business owner who is struggling through the Depression. Then an angel (Harry Morgan) comes calling to show Charley what will happen if he continues on an unhappy path.

11:30 a.m. on TBS

Movie: Three Wishes

Patrick Swayze plays Jack McCloud, an injured and apparently homeless man who is taken in by a compassionate woman (Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio). While he's recuperating, he slowly but surely bonds with her sons — especially Tom (Joseph Mazzello), who misses his MIA father.

TV Trivia

Barbara Stanwyck ("Stella Dallas") was an orphan who was raised by her showgirl sister, and began her career as a teen dancing in speak-easies.

Alfred Woodard ("A Wrinkle in Time") won an ACE award for her role in "Mandela" and an NAACP Image Award for "Radio."

Billy Dee Williams ("Half & Half") studied at the Harlem Actors Workshop, where he was tutored by award-winning actor Sidney Poitier.

Tim Conway ("The Carol Burnett Show: Let's Bump Up the Lights") joined the U.S. Army, where he lost track of 7,500 troops.

Don Cheadle ("Devil in a Blue Dress") is an accomplished jazz musician who received college scholarships for both music and acting.

Movie: Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone

Director Chris Columbus' blockbuster 2001 version of the internationally popular J.K. Rowling story features Daniel Radcliffe as Harry, the young wizard in training. He finds himself the target of an unknown enemy while being schooled in the use of magic at Hogwarts. Rupert Grint and Emma Watson play Harry's young comrades. The expert supporting cast includes Robbie Coltrane, Alan Rickman, Maggie Smith and Richard Harris.

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

The Simpsons

Homer (voice of Dan Castellaneta) realizes he met Marge (voice of Julie Kavner) much earlier than he thought in the new episode "The Way We Weren't." As a youngster, he never got the name of the girl with whom he shared his first kiss while attending summer camp — but she turns out to have been Marge, who was devastated when it appeared they never would meet again.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Survivor: All-Stars

One thing is for sure: No one is going to become a second-time millionaire here, since past seasons' winners all have been voted out of this competition already. Jeff Probst presides over the two-hour season finale, which bestows the $1 million grand prize on someone who missed out the first time around. An hour-long reunion of all the players, also hosted by Probst, follows immediately.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Malcolm in the Middle

Reprising her recurring guest role

Jeff Probst

as Grandma Ida, Cloris Leachman is reunited with her former "Mary Tyler Moore Show" cohort Betty White in the new episode "Victor's Other Family." White plays the other wife of Lois' (Jane Kaczmarek) father, and while she's being visited by Lois and the boys, the ever-vengeful Ida drops in. An accident affects Hal's (Bryan Cranston) participation in a father-son race.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Criminal Intent

Goren and Eames (Vincent D'Onofrio, Kathryn Erbe) investigate the Mafia after a government witness and an undercover cop are murdered in the new episode "Fico di Capo." The probe boils down to two warring crime families, with Russian mobsters also factoring in. A don who is on his deathbed may be key to solving the homicides.

All My Children

Liza got hold of Babe's annulment papers but was reluctant to use them because of the effect it would have on J.R. However, when Liza confessed her love to Tad but he only wanted to be friends with her because of his feelings for Krystal, Liza showed J.R. the papers and revealed the truth about Babe's deception. Unaware of this, Babe grew closer to Bianca and asked her to be her maid of honor and Bess' godmother. After hearing another tirade from Kendall against Ryan, Greenlee decided to accept his marriage proposal, and they set the ground rules for their marriage of convenience, including no sex for at least six months. Coming: Aidan sees Erica in Las Vegas.

As the World Turns

Paul read Rosanna's file on Jordan and discovered that she's been lying to everyone. After Paul showed Jordan the file, he walked out on Rosanna, but finally agreed to marry her after she gave him a sob story about Cabot. Jennifer was shattered to walk into the chapel as Jordan and Rosanna were wed. Meanwhile, Craig had Cabot. Barbara confessed her schemes to Paul, who surprised her by wanting to start clean. Katie fell into Pilar's trap and, unable to convince Mike of Pilar's intentions, checked herself into a mental hospital rather than be sent to jail. When an IRS agent discovered the money-laundering scheme, Dusty claimed to Lily that he was duped. Coming: Rosanna hits a roadblock in her quest for Cabot.

Bold and Beautiful

Ignoring Priscilla's excuses, Hector floored Samantha when he told her that their daughter is alive, and it's Caitlin. Samantha later lashed out at her mother. Ridge pleaded for Brooke to leave Nick but she refused, admitting that she's given herself to Nick in every way. Brooke and Stephanie had a furious confrontation, with Stephanie ecstatic that Brooke is out of her family forever, and Brooke responding that Ridge will always be in her life. Deacon suggested to Jackie that they could end her mental torment by finding a way to redo the paternity test themselves. Coming: Samantha wants to get to know her daughter.

Days of Our Lives

Marlena's horrifying final confession was that she killed Roman because she loved him and hated that he married Kate. But when the truth drug wore off, Marlena couldn't remember her confession and said to John that she couldn't have killed Roman out of love because John is the only man she's loved for years! Under Nicole's direction, Crystal lured Marlena to the prison roof, and was ready to kill her. Kate kept Shawn and Belle apart, so that when Belle was looking for comfort, she reached out to a delighted Phillip. Coming: Jan gets ready to take Shawn prisoner.

General Hospital

Sam decided to keep the baby but didn't tell Sonny she's pregnant. When Jax saw Sam's vitamins he realized that she's expecting and prepared to spill the beans to Sonny, even as Sam packed a bag and left a letter for Sonny. Jason and Courtney's continuing battles ended up as a passionate kiss. When Skye realized that someone is trying to frame her, she wondered if it could be Laura, infuriating Luke. Coming: Mary arouses Jason's suspicion.

Soap Synopsis

Guiding Light

Danny persuaded Salerno that he's trustworthy, and later let Jeffrey know that he is a prime target of the mobster, which Jeffrey brushed off. Much to Danny's shock, Michelle asked to take a more active role in getting Danny deeper into the mob. Salerno freaked out Eden by showing up at her apartment and telling her that he won't let her go to Las Vegas with Bill - or anywhere else. After Gus came clean to Frank about his drug investigation, Frank agreed to transfer him into narcotics. Coming: Lizzie tries to get between Tammy and Joey.

One Life to Live

When the ransom payoff went awry, Starr's abductor fled the train station with her, and she feared for her life. Even as Dorian, Marcie and Michael suspected Dr. Long of selling donor organs, Paul caught Marcie snooping around his helicopter. Natalie accepted Paul's marriage proposal, but later pulled John into a kiss. As Adriana forgave River and they embraced, Shannon observed them and felt lonely. Nigel promised to help Roxy out of her jam when she was harassed by a bookie. Coming: Viki's health reaches the crisis stage. Passions crimes committed by the Crane family. Alistair forced Beth to attend the dance and work with him to stop the show. Antonio grew edgy as Sheridan wondered if Luis has been telling the truth all along. Theresa concocted another plan to fool Gwen, but all her scheming took a toll on Pilar's health. Coming: Is this the end for Pilar?

Young and Restless

Kevin was rushed to the hospital, where he almost died from the prison beating. When Gloria arrived unexpectedly and demanded to see Kevin, Michael refused. Fearful that Phyllis might recruit Damon to Newman Enterprises, Dru convinced Diane to seduce Damon. Neil was honored and agreed to Victor's offer making him CEO. After Sharon got rid of Grace following another confrontation she was left in shock when Cameron's ghost suddenly kissed her. Coming: J.T.'s relationship with Colleen is put under pressure.

Soap Talk

Mother's Day, the soap opera way

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

Soap opera moms can be very, very good, but when they're bad - watch out! Jess Walton (Jill Foster Abbott on "The Young and the Restless") knows of what she speaks. She is both a real-life mom to son Cole, with hubby John W. James, a grief recovery counselor, and stepdaughter Allison. But she's also a TV mom to Billy Abbott.

"I remember thinking a couple of years ago, 'I could give up everything in my life if God or the universe could say to me, 'If you do this, I promise that your child will be happy.''" she recalls.

It was an amazing thought to Walton, who acted in a play last November in which Cole played her son. And despite the vagaries of life in the entertainment industry, Walton encourages him to follow his dream.

"When you have a child, you worry about him no matter what, but I would rather have him in a difficult career that makes him happy than in a safe career where he lives a slow death," she explains.

As a TV mom she is a bit more conniving. Jill didn't hesitate to try to break up a romance she deemed inappropriate for Billy. Walton acknowledges that daytime moms often commit horribly twisted acts in the name of their offspring.

"Usually it involves the mother's idea of what makes the children happy, as opposed to letting the children choose what would make them happy," she says.

Dear Paulette: I would like to know more about Michael Easton. I miss "Port Charles," but I am glad that he is on "One Life to Live." Is he married? -April Grant, Harrington, Maine

Dear Reader: The California-born, Irish Easton is single. He began his daytime career on "Days of Our Lives," but he soon left to try his hand in prime time and movies. When the actor's mother, Joan, became ill with cancer, he put his career on hold for a few years to care for her until her death in 1994.

Easton is also an accomplished writer, with "Eighteen Straight Whiskeys," a book of poetry about his early life experiences, to his credit.

Navy NCIS

A Marine's impaled body sets Gibbs (Mark Harmon) and his cohorts on the search for the person responsible in the new episode "Split Decision." They cross paths with an apparent ATF agent (guest star Bellamy Young, "Scrubs") who is on the same case, making her a handy ally as Gibbs tries to arrange a meeting with a militia leader who may have relevant information.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS

Nova

The 2003 science-fiction movie "The Core" posed what could happen if Earth's liquid-metallic interior stopped spinning, and "Magnetic Storm" serves a similar purpose. A team at the University of Maryland has been conducting tests using a facsimile of the planet's core, made of molten sodium. Other experts are examining Mars, which has existed without a protective magnetic field for four billion years.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Dick Van Dyke Revisited

Not just a cast reunion, this new special is an episode of the series about Rob and Laura Petrie (Dick Van Dyke, Mary Tyler Moore), son Richie (Larry Mathews) and their friends. Rob and his former comedy-writing colleague Sally (Rose Marie) are asked by their ex-boss, Alan Brady (Carl Reiner, who also wrote this script), to write his eulogy before he dies. Actress Ann Morgan Guilbert, alias the show's Millie Helper, also returns.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Dateline NBC

As the magazine program did last week when the series finale of "Friends" was approaching, this new episode casts a spotlight on "Frasier" just before the long-running sitcom airs its last episode. Title star Kelsey Grammer is interviewed, along with fellow cast members David Hyde

Pierce, John Mahoney, Jane Leeves and Peri Gilpin. Producers of the show also reflect on the tenure of the "Cheers" spinoff.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

America's Next Top Model

What's been up with Yoanna House, the competition's winner, and her 11 rivals since the unscripted series' second season ended? Answers are furnished by the new special "The Runway Ahead," featuring interviews with the women as well as relatives and friends.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC

NYPD Blue

The jury returns a verdict in the trial of Craig Woodruff (guest star Cyrus Farmer) as the police drama wraps up its 11th season with "Who's Your Daddy?" While working with Sipowicz (Dennis Franz) to solve a woman's murder, Clark (Mark-Paul Gosselaar) has a personal crisis involving Jennifer Devlin (guest star Chandra West).

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Judging Amy

Amy (Amy Brenneman) is suspicious of a teenager's excuse for leaving home in the new episode "My Little Runaway." The boy claims he wants to become a circus gymnast, but Amy thinks there's more to it. Maxine (Tyne Daly) also has doubts about a youngster; in her case, it's a foster child who lies about being sexually assaulted. Barbara Carrera ("Never Say Never Again") and Ben Murphy guest star.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

A parent previously accused of child abuse is the likeliest suspect in the poisoning of her adopted son in the new episode "Poison." Stabler and Benson's (Christopher Meloni, Mariska Hargitay) case against her is complicated when prosecutor Novak (Diane Neal) runs up against a difficult judge (guest star Tom Skerritt). Mario Thomas, Cynthia Gibb ("Fame") and Barry Bostwick also guest star.

That '70s Show

Eric (Topher Grace) evidently creates trouble when he fails to heed Donna's (Laura Prepon) advice against taking an early peek at her wedding dress in the new episode "Sparks." After he does, the garment is mysteriously wrecked, and Bob (Don Stark) tries to save the day. Red (Kurtwood Smith) tries to find the soon-to-be-newlyweds a cost-free gift. Outtakes from the series follow.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Smallville

A big turning point is in store in the new episode "Forsaken," as Clark (Tom Welling) decides to reveal his superpowers to Lana (Kristin Kreuk). Pete (Sam Jones III) is kidnapped by a rogue FBI agent (guest star Gary Hudson) who wants to know Clark's secret. Lex (Michael Rosenbaum) is threatened with a jail sentence unless he gives up all the information he has on his father (John Glover).

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

The Mentalist

How powerful is a person's mind? Gerry McCambridge has answers for that, since he relies on his mental acuity to make others do things. In this new special, he prompts strangers to reveal intimate details about their respective lives. McCambridge also wears a blindfold while steering a scooter through the streets of New York, and puts young actress Brittany Snow ("American Dreams") through sensory deprivation.

7 p.m. and DSC

Trojan Horse

Undoubtedly of extra interest to some viewers due to Brad Pitt's new movie "Troy," this new two-hour program recalls the huge vehicle constructed by the Greeks to seek revenge against the warriors of the city of Troy. Greek soldiers hide inside the "horse," which Trojan soldiers cart home — unaware that they're also transporting enemy troops, led by Odysseus, who are more than ready to attack after a decade of defeat.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

The Bachelor

It's down to the last two women, so in true "Bachelor" tradition, the other 23 regroup and share their feelings about the competition (which concludes next week) in the latest edition of "The Women Tell All." The participants have very definite opinions about football star Jesse Palmer and the time they spent with him. Series host Chris Harrison moderates as their comments, punctuated by laughs as well as tears, spill forth.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

The West Wing

Donna (Janel Moloney) literally is in the line of fire as a member of a fact-finding team attacked while visiting the Middle East in the new episode "Gaza." The president (Martin Sheen) reacts to the assault by considering a military response. Flashbacks reveal Donna's interest in a photojournalist (guest star Jason Issacs, "The Patriot") who continually puts himself at risk while working in the world's hot spots.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

National Geographic

A civilization that evidently pre-dates Christ is the subject of the new special "Dawn of the Maya," as archeologists find apparent remnants of the society in the jungles of Guatemala. A mask of a sun god — carved into a temple pyramid — remains remarkably intact after more than 2,000 years, offering clues to rituals that were performed by the Mayans in ancient cities like Cival and Tikal.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

The Carol Burnett Show: Let's Bump Up the Lights

Following the big ratings her previous reunion special earned, variety-show icon Carol Burnett returns with her former weekly TV cohorts — Harvey Korman, Tim Conway, Vicki Lawrence and Lyle Waggoner — to present out-takes from Burnett's question-and-answer sessions with the studio audience. The other cast members also fielded queries, many of which were as unexpected as the stars' resulting responses.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

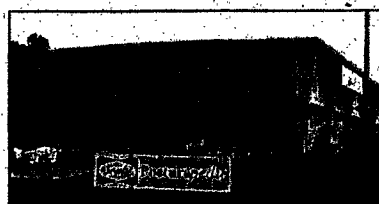

Law & Order

A newlywed's wedding night turns out to be his final night as well, since his body is found in bed the next morning in the new episode "Caviar Emptor." A caviar tycoon, the man may have been killed by his bride — or by his own daughter, as suggested by the murder weapon found in her bedroom. Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin) try to determine who is telling the truth.

Gerry McCambridge

Frasier

In what series star Kelsey Grammer terms "a good farewell," the sitcom ends its run with the hour-long finale "Goodnight, Seattle" (following a one-hour retrospective of the show's 11 seasons). From all indications, a wedding will be part of the plot as Frasier, Niles, Martin, Daphne and Roz (Grammer, David Hyde Pierce, John Mahoney, Jane Leeves, Peri Gilpin) prepare to move on to the next chapters in their lives.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

CSI: Crime Scene Investigation

Catherine's (Marg Helgenberger) personal link to a murder investigation forces Grissom (William Petersen) to take her off the case in the new episode "No More Bets." Her biological father (guest star Scott Wilson) is the prime suspect in a double homicide;

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Without a Trace

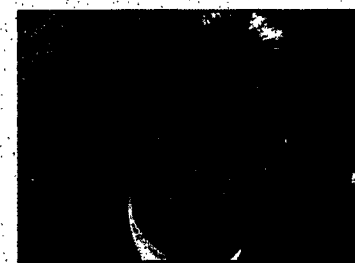

A teenager (guest star Tina Majorino, "Waterworld") approaches FBI agents with apparent evidence found on the Internet that she was kidnapped before her adoption in the early 1990s in the new episode "Lost and Found." As Jack (Anthony LaPaglia) investigates the case, he also has shocking news for the rest of his team: He is planning to relocate to Chicago with his family.

9 p.m. on 19-PBS

Frontline

Oregon high-school student Kip Kinkel seemed so normal. He'd never even been in trouble until May 20, 1998, the day he was expelled for buying a gun and went home to kill his parents.

Friday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Movie: Little Nicky

Adam Sandler goes straight to the devil, literally, in this 2000 comedy. He has the title role as the son of Satan (Harvey Keitel), but Nicky's brothers have more devilish intentions for the world. It's up to him to decide whether to oppose his siblings or go along with their plans for global domination. Rhys Ifans ("Notting Hill") and Patricia Arquette co-star.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Movie: Joan of Arcadia

Joan's (Amber Tamblyn) effort to meet a heavenly request to give Adam (Christopher Marquette) a present yields a big surprise in the new episode "The Gift." While looking through Adam's book bag, she finds a condom — and tries to determine whether it's a sign that she is meant to become physically intimate with him.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Reba

The sitcom wraps up its third year with Barbra Jean (Melissa Peterman) wanting to have another baby in "Core Focus." She asks for Reba's (Reba McEntire) help in convincing Brock (Christopher Rich), but she then suspects the two are having an affair. Cheyenne and Van (JoAnna Garcia, Steve Howey) ask Reba to co-sign the lease on the penthouse they want to move into.

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

Movie: Angel Eyes

Jennifer Lopez stars in this 2001 melodrama as a police officer whose life is saved by a handsome stranger (Jim Caviezel, "The Passion of the Christ"). He seems to appoint himself her guardian, and while that gives her comfort initially, she begins to fear him.

7 p.m. and BRAV

Movie: Devil in a Blue Dress

Downtrodden detective Easy Rawlins (Denzel Washington) is hired to locate a missing woman and uncovers the dark side of 1948 Los Angeles in all its sordid glory. The assignment leads him into a web of blackmail, murder, racism and corruption that reaches from the criminal underworld all the way to City Hall. Jennifer Beals and Tom Sizemore also star in this 1995 mystery based on a novel by Walter Mosley.

7 p.m. on FAM

Movie: The Karate Kid

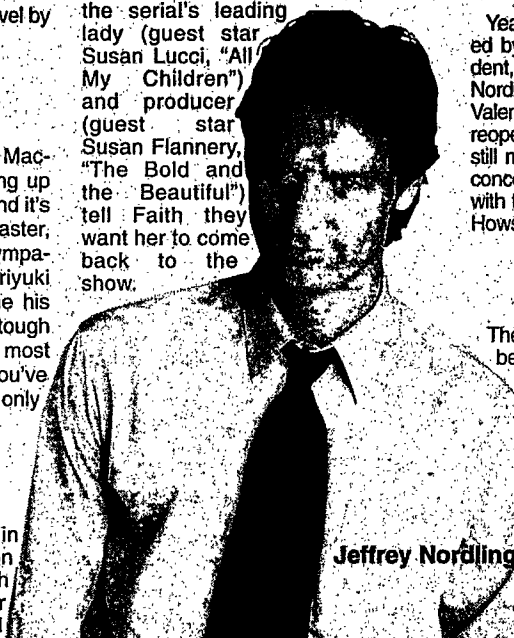

Troubled teen Daniel (Ralph Macchio) learns the secret of standing up to bullies in this 1984 drama — and it's not just knowing how to run faster, jump higher and hit harder. A sympathetic martial-arts master (Noriyuki "Pat" Morita) helps him discipline his body, mind and spirit through tough but gentle lessons, including the most important one of all: Use what you've learned about kicking posterior only when absolutely necessary.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Hope & Faith

Daytime drama stars abound in this sitcom's hour-long season finale, "Daytime Emmys." Faith (Kelly Ripa) is reunited with her former co-stars on "The Sacred and the Sinfu!" when they become award nominees. At the ceremony, the serial's leading lady (guest star Susan Lucci, "All My Children") and producer (guest star Susan Flannery, "The Bold and the Beautiful") tell Faith they want her to come back to the show.

Jeffrey Nordling

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Cold Case

Years after his teaching career was ended by the suspicion that he killed a student, an ex-professor (guest star Jeffrey Nordling, "Once and Again") asks Lily and Valens (Kathryn Morris, Danny Pino) to reopen the investigation in "Hubris." He still maintains he's innocent, although he concedes he had a romantic relationship with the victim, Lisa Dean Ryan ("Doogie Howser, M.D.") also guest stars.

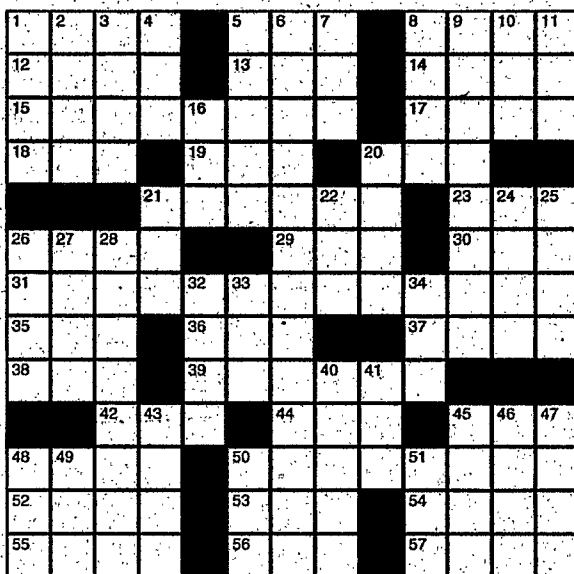

9 p.m. on BRAV

Movie: The Doors

The on- and off-stage lives of the members of the influential 1960s rock-music group are surveyed by director Oliver Stone. The focus of the 1991 drama is on charismatic, sullenly rebellious lead singer Jim Morrison (Val Kilmer, in a remarkable look-alike, sound-alike performance). Meg Ryan, Kyle MacLachlan and Frank Whaley co-star; the soundtrack includes such Doors classics as "Light My Fire" and "Riders on the Storm."

Saturday Best Bets

2:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

Boxing

What has featured mostly Latino punchers in lighter weight classes in the previous four weeks of NBC's boxing series concludes today from Yakima, Wash., with a matchup of rising heavyweights, notably American Calvin Brock. The Charlotte, N.C., native puts his unbeaten record (20-0, 18 KOs) on the line against Belarus-born Serguei Lyakhovich, who has lost just once in 22 pro bouts.

4 p.m. on 6-NBC

Horse Racing

The second leg in the Triple Crown series is run for the 129th time at the Preakness Stakes, from Pimlico Race Course in Baltimore. With the Kentucky Derby now two weeks in the past, the race for the top 3-year-old is shaping up. Tom Hammond, Charlie Cantey and Mike Battaglia are among the commentators.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: 28 Days Later

A lab accident unleashes a virus that means death for countless people in "Trainspotting" director Danny Boyle's acclaimed, London-set 2003 thriller. The illness causes those infected to become angry enough to kill, causing constant tension for those who have avoided the disease but must stay on their toes against the afflicted. Brendan Gleeson ("Lake Placid") and Christopher Eccleston ("Shallow Grave") head the cast.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Movie: Swordfish

High-tech espionage drives this fast-paced 2001 adventure. It stars John Travolta as a renegade spy who recruits a computer hacker (Hugh Jackman) in a scheme to steal secret, unused government funds. Their employers want to use the money to bankroll a covert offensive against international terrorism. Halle Berry, Don Cheadle and Sam Shepard also are in the cast.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Criminal Intent

Relatives of a wealthy man become suspects in his fatal beating in "Happy Family." Goren and Bishop (Vincent D'Onofrio, Samantha Buck) focus their investigation on the victim's wife, from whom he was getting divorced. The probe ultimately results in an Agatha Christie-like gathering of all the possible killers.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

Stabler and Benson (Christopher Meloni, Mariska Hargitay) worry about the influence a single mother has on her two sons in "Home." The woman clearly dominates her children, trying to instill in them her own fears about residing in New York.

Marlo Thomas and Dixie Carter ("Designing Women") guest star.

9 p.m. on HBO

Lewis Black: Black on Broadway

Often seen on "The Daily Show" and "Late Night With Conan O'Brien,"

humorist Black offers shoot-from-the-hip outlooks on modern life in this new special taped during a sold-out performance at the Brooks Atkinson Theater in New York. Topics include the U.S. economy, corporate wrongdoing, the war in Iraq, homeland security and health fads.

9:15 p.m. on AMC

Movie: Capricorn One

What if a space mission was a hoax? Don't dismiss the possibility until you've seen writer-director Peter Hyams' (1978) clever 1978 adventure movie. James Brolin, Sam Waterston and O.J. Simpson portray astronauts isolated by a space-agency official (Hal Holbrook) who knows their flight to Mars would have been disastrous. Elliott Gould plays a reporter who suspects the trio's "transmissions" from the red planet are being faked.

Video Vantage

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"IN AMERICA": Oscar-nominated performances by Samantha Morton and Djimon Hounsou help fuel director Jim Sheridan's autobiographical and deeply moving drama. Sheridan made it a family affair by co-writing the film with his daughters, Naomi and Kirsten. It's appropriate, since the story follows an Irishman (played by Paddy Considine) who emigrates to America with his wife (Morton) and daughters (sisters Emma and Sarah Bolger). They settle in a run-down New York building where their neighbors include an ill artist (Hounsou). DVD extras: audio commentary by Sheridan; "making-of" documentary; deleted scenes; alternate ending. * (PG-13: AS, P)

"SCARY MOVIE 3": The horror-spoof franchise gets a new lease on life from director David Zucker, an expert on screen satires ("Airplane!" "The Naked Gun"), with a chapter that makes perennial survivor Cindy (Anna Faris) a television reporter. She examines mysterious crop circles, a la "Signs," while also investigating an allegedly lethal videotape (as in "The Ring"). Co-stars include Charlie Sheen, Pamela Anderson, Anthony Anderson, George Carlin, Queen Latifah and Leslie Nielsen also turn up. DVD extras: audio commentary by Zucker, producer Robert K. Weiss and writers Craig Mazin and Pat Proft; "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; outtakes.  (R: AS, P, V)

"THE FOG OF WAR": The most recent Oscar winner for best documentary feature, director Errol Morris' ("The Thin Blue Line") profile of former U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara offers an insider's view of pivotal world events during the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. The Cuban Missile Crisis and the Vietnam War are covered substantially in McNamara's recollections, which were filmed by Morris over the course of two years. DVD extras: theatrical trailers; deleted scenes; "Robert McNamara's 10 Lessons" (in text form). * (PG-13: P, V)

"FRIENDS: THE SERIES FINALE": Mere days after its broadcast on NBC, the episode that brought down the curtain on one of the most successful TV sitcoms of all time arrives on video... an amazingly quick turnaround, indicating the anticipation its studio had of people wanting to see it again immediately. This version includes extra material as Rachel, Ross, Monica, Chandler, Phoebe and Joey (Jennifer Aniston, David Schwimmer, Courteney Cox, Arquette, Matthew Perry, Lisa Kudrow, Matt LeBlanc) prepare to embark on the next chapters of their lives. DVD extras: the series' original pilot episode; music videos by the Rembrandts ("I'll Be There for You") and the Flaming Lips ("Phoebe Battles the Pink Robots").  (Not rated: AS, P)

"SURVIVOR: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON": The set of CBS episodes that revolutionized television in several ways - not just by proving big ratings could be won during the summer, but also by opening the door on the reality-series phenomenon - is offered in full. The 16 contestants vying for the $1 million grand prize on the South China Sea island of Pulau Tiga include nudity-loving Richard Hatch, tough-talking Susan Hawk, military veteran Rudy Boesch and sweet Colleen Haskell; Jeff Probst is the host who douses players' torches, and hopes, during Tribal Councils.  (Not rated: AS, N, P)

"JONNY QUEST: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON": When most TV cartoons were about funny families or animals, genre legends William Hanna and Joseph Barbera were true visionaries in providing ABC with this animated mid-1960s adventure that often put its characters in genuine peril. Tim Matheon ("The West Wing") had one of his earliest showbiz jobs as the voice of Jonny, son of scientist Benton Quest and ward of bodyguard Race Bannon. Jonny's snake-charmer friend Hadji and dog Bandit also are prominent in the exploits.  (Not rated: V)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"MIRACLE" (May 18): Kurt Russell plays Herb Brooks, the coach of the U.S. hockey team that scored a surprising victory over the Russian squad at the 1980 Winter Olympics. (PG: P)

"PAYCHECK" (May 18): A technology expert (Ben Affleck), whose mind is purged of each of his jobs after he finishes, is pursued by villains determined to cleanse his memory forever. (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"SMALLVILLE: THE COMPLETE SECOND SEASON" (May 18): The young Clark Kent (Tom Welling) learns more about his superpowers in the wake of a tornado. (Not rated)

"THE LORD OF THE RINGS: THE RETURN OF THE KING" (May 25): The fantasy trilogy wraps up with the latest Oscar winner for best picture; Elijah Wood and Sean Astin star. (PG-13: P, V)

"WELCOME TO MOOSEPORT" (May 25): A local businessman (Ray Romano) and a former U.S. president (Gene Hackman) are the rivals in a small-town mayoral race. (PG-13: AS, P)

Country star Brad Paisley rocks while rocker John Mayer plucks

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

Country-music heartthrob Brad Paisley saunters into the dimly lit room. He flops down on the chaise lounge and says, "Well, when I was 4," pretending to talk to a psychiatrist.

Twenty minutes earlier, pop singer John Mayer begins a conversation with, "It's like lately I feel so muted."

The two had no time to work out this bit, yet neither could resist the joke and the lure of the armless couch, despite chairs and a sofa in the room.

Most people would not associate the two, yet Paisley and Mayer jibe well in "CMT Crossroads" Friday, May 14. The duo star in the Country Music Television concert taped in New York's Hammerstein Ballroom March 30.

Both men are dressed alike in black short-sleeved T-shirts and well-worn jeans. However, there are significant differences. Paisley's shirt and pants fit snugly, showing off a buff body. He wears a black-tooled belt with a silver buckle and black cowboy boots. He looks sharp. Mayer looks as if he may have plucked his shirt and pants from a pile on the floor. He wears a brown belt with the word "soul" etched into it, and sneakers. He looks comfortable.

Considering Paisley writes about happily eating the burned steak his wife (who is Kimberly Williams of ABC's "According to Jim") cooks, while Mayer writes about expressing rage by running through the halls of his high school, their outlooks are decidedly different.

Yet the result is intriguing and fun, and the guys genuinely like each other.

"I was a fan of his," Mayer, 26, says of Paisley. "As a person, he is very likeable and engaging, especially when you meet people who don't have that quality."

Mayer, who tours some 250 nights a year, admits he has not seen "Crossroads" and "doesn't listen to country."

Yet Paisley, 31, made sure Mayer knew who he was because he had his bus driver deliver his compact disc to Mayer.

"I didn't ask him personally" to do the show, Paisley says. "I am familiar with his music. CMT sort of made some suggestions of people and wanted me to do a 'Crossroads.' I said that'll work, and then John and I met a few times."

As he prepares to go on stage, Paisley says, "I'd like to see my fans who aren't familiar with him like to be by the time we are done and vice versa."

"It's great to play New York this way," Paisley says. "It's fun; a lot of people will see me for the first time and they won't have any misconceptions that I am not capable of doing this sort of music. The sky's the limit."

"The one idea is to show talent," Mayer says. "It's not being artist specific. Brad's gotten a kick out of watching me play a country song."

They rehearsed for 12 hours the day of the concert and split 10 songs evenly among each man's work. A tape of the television show was not available at press time, and CMT was only certain that these five songs would make it onto the one-hour show: Mayer's "Why Georgia," "Bigger Than My Body" and "Come Back to Bed," and Paisley's "Little Moments" and "That's Love."

Additional songs will be aired, and if viewers are lucky, so will the performers' spontaneous banter.

As the two men take the stage in the 1906 hall, the invitation-only audience goes crazy. Some of this is a result of a stage manager's prompting, but the squeals over Paisley are genuine. Women focus their cell phones on the stage, snap Paisley's photo, then giggle into their phones.

"The country guy has sports in his ear," Mayer says, gesturing toward Paisley's earpiece. "NASCAR," Paisley deadpans.

"I said I was looking forward to 'Crossroads' so Brad could become popular with 15-year-old girls, and I could become popular with 15-year-old fathers," Mayer says.

In between ad-libbing they make beautiful music. Both are strong guitarists, coaxing jazzy beats and rockier licks from their instruments.

Throughout, Mayer is the smart aleck and Paisley the refrained gentleman. However, once Mayer leaves the stage for a few minutes, Paisley has his fun. "Before he gets to a town, he asks for different live animals," Paisley says of Mayer. "He wanted a male and female hamster. He wanted an iguana. Where do you find an iguana in New York? He wanted a tribble - some animal that doesn't exist. He saw it on 'Star Trek.'"

The two take questions from the audience, and someone asks Paisley about meeting his heroes.

Brad Paisley performs and tells stories on Country Music Television's "CMT Crossroads" Friday. "It's just proof of the impact of the six-string guitar," Paisley says about his sex appeal.
